New school bid policy in Madison

By WILLIAM F. WINTER and GARY SCHNEIDER

Madison Board of Education members Tuesday night called for establishment of new bidding procedures affecting school supplies and equipment.

Harold T. Fisk asked the administrative staff to begin scheduling periodic bid openings at which board members, citizens and bidders can witness opening of sealed quotations.

Such figures then will be compared and analyzed by school administrators, whose recommendations on contract awards will be submitted at subsequent board meetings.

At the suggestion of Board Member Willie Walker, administrative handling of small purchases of paper, crayons and other supplies will be submitted in written form to the board so it can confirm purchase decisions.

Board members also informally indicated they plan more open policies regarding public participation and information.

It has been a practice to delay the start of scheduled 7:30 p.m. meetings, leaving citizens upstairs while board members

Homestead jolt—15c tax rate

Assessment reductions due to the homestead law and abolition of the individual personal property tax will reduce Granite City School District income in the 1973-74 school year by at least $140,000 from what had been expected.

This was shown in a financial review by administrators and board members at Tuesday night Board of Education meeting.

The review further disclosed that the anticipated school tax rate for this summer's collection will be 15.84 cents higher than anticipated, changing the projected District Nine rate from $3.9238 to $3.991.

A 50.18-cent bond and interest rate had been expected, based on initially announced assessed valuation, but it now seems sure to reach 65 cents.

Other upward revisions within the total school tax rate are the figure for the Illinois Municipal Retirement Fund, changed from 15.38 to 16.41 cents, and the junior college tuition fund, altered from four cents to 4.19 cents.

Unchanged are the projected $2.25 education fund rate, 37.5 cents for building and maintenance, five cents for fire prevention, four cents for special education and 12 cents for transportation.

Comptroller Victor G. Anderson told the board, "As you know, our valuation came in at $216,430,372 as compared to the estimated amount of $230 million.

"This is a loss of $13,569,628 when compared with our estimated assessed value. And it is under last year's total by $10,380,231."

Of the $10,380,231 assessment decrease in the school district, nearly all—$10,166,122—involves Granite City Township, the remainder relating to Nameoki, Chuteau and Venice Townships.

The $106,876,292 valuation consists of $65,377,740 personal property, down $6,811,335; $18,576,950 lands, down $2,228,610; $86,625,330 lots, down $1,088,470; and $1,065,272 railroad property, up $22,282.

"As a result of the decisions finding that personal property taxes for individuals are not to be collected, and as a result of the homestead exemption, the 1973 valuation (1973 tax collection) is $10,380,231 less than the 1971 assessment, a decrease of 5%," Anderson noted.

"Because of this, the education fund will receive at least $88,000 less in the next school year than it received in the present 1972-73 year."

"Our other special operating funds will receive at least $61,000 less next year than they received this year."

"These figures are based on actual cash flow," the comptroller commented.

He added, "The budgeted figures, which are based on the accrual basis, show an even worse loss."

The accrual budget deficits include $276,996 for education, $75,236 for building and maintenance, $24,076 for transportation, $5,432 for fire prevention and $626 for special education.

Port reopens, will be busy

By GARY SCHNEIDER

The Granite City harbor area resumed work today on an around-the-clock basis to catch up on a backlog of river ship work which had been delayed by flooding of the Mississippi River.

The river now is receding. Carl Banfi, manager of the Tri-City Regional Port, said work is expected to continue at a full pace for the next three months at the port before the backlog is eliminated.

The Chain of Rocks Locks and Canal were opened to river traffic last night and began locking barges through almost immediately.

Work on demolishing the flood wall at the locks was begun Tuesday morning and the locks were ready to open at 6 p.m. yesterday.

Howard Keeney, lockmaster, said all electrical systems had to be checked and all moving parts which had been under water had to be cleaned and lubricated before the lock could be opened. He added that pumps had kept the water out of the giant electric motors and they were not damaged.

Also opening last night were the Illinois River from La Grange to Grafton and the Mississippi River from the mouth of the Illinois River to St. Louis Harbor. The Missouri River was opened yesterday.

The U. S. Corps of Engineers was expected to open the Mississippi River today from St.

Plan group okays plant

Plans to annex a soybean processing plant on Cargill Road into Granite City were endorsed Tuesday afternoon by the Granite City Plan Commission. The Granite City council must yet approve the annexation.

The plan commission voted unanimously to recommend the proposal to the City Council. The plan calls for the annexation of 25 acres of land, including the former Cargill Elevator, into the city.

Archer Daniels Midland Grain Co. is constructing a multi-million dollar soybean crushing and processing plant on the land just east of the grain elevator which also is owned by A.D.M.

Leo Konzen, attorney representing A.D.M., told the plan commission the company plans to open the facility this summer.

"It will increase employment here and will work in conjunction with the city zoning, with facilities at the Tri-City Regional Port," Konzen said.

Company officials previously disclosed the plant would employ about 45 persons and could triple in size in the future.

Plans to construct a new barge-loading elevator at the port also were discussed but unresolved details have a delayed construction of the four-silo unit which would employ eight to 12 more persons.

The annexation of the soybean plant and grain elevator into the city would bring in the land east of the Alton & Southern Railroad tracks now being used by A.D.M., plus a 50-foot-wide strip along the west side of the tracks.

Konzen disclosed he is negotiating with the railroad to have a part of the tracks and right-of-way annexed also.

"It will solidify the annexation if the Alton & Southern will bring in the strip, but it is not necessary," Konzen said.

D. F. Shimon, chief A.D.M. engineer, who also attended the meeting, said the company plans to lay an underground forced main sewer from the plant, under the railroad tracks and then north along the 50 foot strip of company property to Pontoon Road where it would tap into the city's sewer.

The annexation of the plant is essential to the company using the city sewer system.

The plan commission also endorsed a request by Konzen that the land be zoned M-2 (heavy industrial) when annexed.

"We presently enjoy an M-3 zoning in the county. We are asking only comparable zoning here," Konzen said.

The definitions of county zoning differ from the city zoning, and M-2 in the city and M-3 in the county are comparable, he said.

"As you know, if we annex without a zoning change, we come in R-1 (single family residential) and we can't live with that," Konzen said.

The only concern was expressed by Henry Gabriel, a commission member, who said, "I can see the community growing residential in that way and I can see in the future an elevator in the middle of a residential area."

Gabriel said he still supported the annexation and the soybean

LAW AND ORDER BANQUET given annually by Elks Lodge 1063, held last night at the Elks Club, was addressed by Allen H. Andrews, acting director of the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission. Seated is Avery Schermer, toastmaster. About 150 attended.

Adopt land usage plan

By MARION BARTOSIAK

The Madison County Board adopted a comprehensive land use plan as it was presented by the County Regional Planning Commission during its meeting Wednesday morning in the courthouse at Edwardsville.

It also approved a flood insurance program and empowered the board chairman to negotiate easements or land acquisitions required to install proper drainage facilities for the Dobrey Slough area where there now is a moratorium on new building.

The board voted off by a 25-5 vote efforts by the Madison County Citizens Environmental Council to insert four amendments which in effect would prevent future development in the American Bottomlands.

The amendments, submitted by Mrs. Sibyl Belliss of East Alton, District 13 member of the board, called for conservation of existing land values by providing orderly development, preventing any unwise land development, discouragement of development where physical conditions will bring environmental or health problems and to preclude development proposals in the American Bottoms until drainage studies could be completed.

H. Jack Frandsen of Alhambra, chairman of the board's land use committee which presented the plan for adoption, commented that the Madison County Soil & Water Conservation Commission provides information and advice on subdivisions as is being sought by Mrs. Belliss and "I don't think she has proposed anything that we don't have."

James R. Heil of Godfrey said an amendment that says you cannot develop a particular area, "I thought he voted for the amendments."

Louis Whitlock of Nameoki Township added that "the board and land use committee should not discourage anything but should encourage proper development. If we adopt this plan we would have from now until eternity to amend it."

Otherwise, he said, "It could be nipped to death."

Veteran teacher Norwood to retire; honored at banquet

A dinner honoring Grover Norwood, a retiring teacher at Granite City High School, was held Thursday evening at the Officers' Club at the Granite City Army Installation.

The dinner was attended by many members of the faculty and administration, as well as past retirees of the school district.

Entertainment was furnished by Steve Jones, assistant principal at the high school, who sang and played the guitar, and by Mrs. Dolores Klesch, who did an impersonation of Phyllis Diller.

Earl Lee, former personnel director of the school district, was master-of-ceremonies.

Norwood has taught in the Granite City School District 38 years. Born March 4, 1912, in Granite City, he attended local schools and graduated from Granite City High School in 1930.

He attended the University of North Carolina, St. Louis University and Washington University in St. Louis, receiving an A.B. degree in 1934.

GROVER NORWOOD

In 1950, he received a master of science degree from the University of Illinois, and since that time has attended several other schools.

He began teaching sixth grade in 1933 at Emerson School in Granite City. He taught for a time at McKinley School, and for eight years he was an eighth grade teacher at Central.

From 1943 to 1948, he was principal at Emerson and Webster Schools.

Since 1948, he has taught biology and physiology at the high school. He also taught anatomy and physiology to student nurses at St. Elizabeth Hospital School of Nursing.

After World War II, he taught extension courses for the University of Illinois in comparative anatomy and zoology.

He and his wife, Mrs. Marge Norwood, reside at 16 Hill Creek Road, Route Two, Collinsville.

Norwood said his plans after retirement are indefinite at present but he expects to pursue numerous hobbies, especially the collecting of insects, rocks, laboratory and do some teaching at the college level.

Judge Monroe enrolls in special course

Judge James O. Monroe Jr., Collinsville, of the Madison County Circuit Court, has been accepted for enrollment in an intensive four-week course in postgraduate legal education conducted by the National College of the State Judiciary, an activity of the Judicial Administration Division of the American Bar Association.

The college, located at the University of Nevada in Reno, is dedicated not only to providing continuing education for judges regardless of their length of time on the bench, but also to bringing modern court management techniques to trial courts nationwide.

Judge Monroe will be attending the session this summer and will study proceedings before trial, new developments in evidence, civil, family and criminal law as well as advanced concepts in court management and administration.

Adopt plan

Hagauer called for adoption of the plan as presented, and after Mrs. Bellis again said that the plan needs strengthening and be a little more definitive, Wayne Bridgewater of Rosas concluded the discussion with the comment that "The environmental people have been overzealous."

The resolution to qualify the county for federal assistance passed without opposition. It designated Jack Clifford, county building and zoning official, and the land use committee as the responsible authorities to determine that building regulations be followed to prevent flood plain areas from being endangered by developments.

With the resolution, a county president may purchase flood insurance at about 10% of the normal cost, with the federal government providing for 90%. The resolution listed the following bodies of water subject to periodic flooding in the county — Silver Creek, Catoka Creek, Long Lake, Horseshoe Lake, Mississippi River, Sugar Creek, Spanker Branch, Wood Creek, Indian Creek, Wind River and Rock Creek.

Thelma Renshaw, of the Department of Local Government Affairs, office in Collinsville, said the resolution covers only the unincorporated areas of the county and the insurance plan requires existence of land use controls. Cities wishing to qualify are to make their own applications, she said.

Following adoption, board members and a crowd of observers viewed color aerial slides of flood waters from Grabber to south of the Gateway Arch during a 15-minute presentation by Clifford.

Under the Doherty Slough resolution, Hagauer now has the authority to approve or deny any developments in the slough area proposed by any person, firm or corporation. He is to instruct the land use committee and building and zoning administrator on his actions before final permits can be issued.

Approval of any developments in the area also would require the approval of the Illinois Division of Waterways, according to the resolution.

Fines for violations will be not less than $5,000 nor more than $10,000 for each offense, and a separate offense will be deemed committed on each day the violation occurs.

During the discussion on the resolution, Franden said the owner of a 100-acre easement necessary for the state to proceed with drainage work will want the easement after the area is released from a development moratorium.

Later in the meeting, J. J. Gramlich of Highland reviewed that on a trip to Washington, D.C., on Tuesday, he learned that Rep. Melvin Price is actively at work in obtaining federal funds for drainage projects at Doherty Slough, Silver Creek and Mississippi River Dam and Lock 27.

Motorcyclist hurt in Lake Drive accident

George R. Churchstick, 45, of 2830 Edwards St., was injured when his motorcycle struck an object on the road in the 4600 block of Lake Drive and apparently overturned at 9 p.m. Wednesday.

He was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital with multiple abrasions to the arms, legs, face and head and cuts to the left side of the head. He was transferred to Firmin Desloge Hospital, St. Louis, following surgery.

Learning center at Lake School sought by parents

Nearly 30 parents of children attending Lake School complained of conditions at the school at a meeting of the Granite City Board of Education Tuesday night.

Dr. Thomas Stevenson, associate professor of labor economics at St. Louis University who resides at Fairview Estates told the board in detail that the roof has leaked for the last seven years, requiring the use of buckets, lighting is substandard and that a learning center has not been established at the school, placing the pupils at a disadvantage.

Stevenson, serving as spokesman, said he has an 8-year-old son of intelligence who is "way behind in reading" and felt that the placement of a learning center at the school might help.

"Talking to the people that I know, our kids are behind," he said. "I want my child to excel, and he is not doing it at Lake School."

Learning centers have been in operation at four elementary schools for two years, resulting in a three-month gain in comprehension by the pupils, the parents were told. The program is a pilot program, and plans now call for establishing learning centers in four more schools every year, officials said.

Designated as new centers next year are Maryville, Mitchell, McKinley and Washington Schools.

Stevenson said "we feel that we are second class citizens and that the other schools are getting the breaks."

He said the parents were told that Lake has not enough staff or space, which he said could be overcome, and that the library, which is empty, could have become the first part of a learning center.

Edward Conwa, Lake principal, said "We would have to do some juggling. We would have to modify class sizes from 25 to 28 or 30, and that lighting is better in the special education section."

B. J. Davis, superintendent, told the group that in the past week he asked Illinois Power Co. to conduct a lighting study at Lake School and Prather

Nameoki town rate increased

A new 1972 tax rate of 32.8 cents per $100 assessed valuation for the town fund and a rate of 27.5 cents for the township's road and bridge fund have been extended by the office of County Clerk Eulalia Holz, the Nameoki Town Board was notified in its meeting Monday night.

The new town rate is an increase of 12.1 cents over the 1971 tax rate, despite an increase in 1972 of $2,644,461 in the township's assessed valuation of $42,489,461 for the 1972 tax year. Tax bills payable this year will be based on the new rates.

The 1972 rate for road and bridge purposes is a 6.1 cent decline from the 1971 rate of 33.9 cents.

Births recorded at St. Elizabeth Hospital:

GIRLS

Mr. and Mrs. Nyle Barker, 807 Washington Ave., Madison, May 15, Amy Beth, eight pounds.

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Starzyk, Collinsville, May 15, Jennifer Lynn, eight pounds, six ounces.

BOYS

Mr. and Mrs. James McClintock, Caseyville, May 14, Jason Douglas, seven pounds, 14 ounces.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Edsall, Caseyville, May 17, Larry Michael, eight pounds, nine ounces.

Junior High School

Tully Heubner, director of buildings and grounds told the group that sufficient funds to replace all of the lighting were needed are unavailable, and that though lighting at the school could be better, it means minimum standards.

Heubner added that a new roof is slated for Lake in 1974 and that other roofs are in poorer condition.

In response to complaints made by individual parents, Heubner said "we have made 103 calls to Lake School this year on maintenance, including 13 on the roof."

One parent complained that all of the children would be placed in the same junior high schools and those who were in learning centers would have an advantage.

Davis said that with a declining enrollment schools will be surveyed again next year to determine space and staff.

Stevenson asked for reconsideration on the learning center.

Member George Moore said he felt "the program should be evaluated, and if it can be worked out, perhaps the program can be speeded up."

LAWRENCE L. LOCKHART, 2116 Lindell Blvd., was elected vice-president of Illinois Association of Tuberculosis Treatment Boards at the group's annual meeting, held in Decatur, Ill., jointly with the Illinois Tuberculosis and Respiratory-Disease Association, Illinois Thoracic Society, and Illinois Respiratory Disease Conference. At left is Mrs. Frances Roberts, Alton Township supervisor, extending congratulations. Mrs. Roberts, District 10 member of the Madison County Board, also is on the county board's health committee. Lockhart is president of the Madison County Tuberculosis Clinic, Edwardsville, and also serves as chairman of the Granite City Masonic Temple building fund.

Emergency repairs are underway at the Tri-City Regional Port for damage to the roads, railroad tracks and equipment which were under water, but operations were to begin today while repairs were being made.

Bulk Service Corp., which leases facilities from the Tri-City Regional Port, has 126 rail cars of glutamate pellets, about 12,000 tons, destined for Europe and ready to be loaded into barges. Six barges of dry fertilizer from Florida also are ready to be unloaded and distributed to Midwest farmers by truck and rail.

Archer Daniels Midland Co. has about 80,000 tons of soybeans and corn in its elevator on Carroll Road and in rail cars here waiting to be loaded into about 40 barges.

Two barges of caustic soda are due for Dow Chemical Co.'s storage tank here and four other liquid chemical barges, including one of fuel oil, one of carbon tetrachloride and two of other chemicals are due.

Public Building Commission established by county board

A public building commission was created by the Madison County Board as a resolution was adopted on second reading at a meeting Wednesday morning at the courthouse in Edwardsville. The commission will be empowered to construct new buildings for the county without the need of a referendum. But a site or sites for the new buildings selected by the commission will be subject to the approval of the board or be subject to a referendum, and no bonds may be issued for acquisition of land without a lease agreement between the commission and board. The commission can be dismissed by the board at any time provided there are no outstanding debts. The resolution passed on a vote of 24-3. Edward Voumard of Alton, who opposed it at the first reading, seconded a motion by James Hell of Godfrey and insisted that "we make the commission responsive to the board."

A previous commission was dissolved by the board last year following a series of disputes between board members, and commissioners. No property was acquired by that group.

Board Chairman Nelson Hagnauer said that "The important thing now is the people who serve on the commission. I will try and expect to appoint people from all areas of the county... get people to make good recommendations."

"I don't want to go through another year by court order." He referred to an order in March by Chief Circuit Judge Fred Schuman who demanded that the board provide additional courtroom space immediately. The board took steps to comply at its April meeting.

Hagnauer is to appoint five commissioners experienced in real estate management, building construction or finance, to be approved by the board.

In other business the board: Approved the following changes of board committee assignments for the next year: William Little of Alton to the finance committee to replace Gilbert Killinger of Collinsville, Homer Henke of Moro to the tax committee to replace Little, and Killinger to the animal health committee to replace Henke. All other members were assigned by Hagnauer to their current committees.

Approved appointments by Hagnauer of Martin Schaeffer of Edwardsville to the sheriff's officers merit commission, Clyde Lineberger of Alton to the zoning board of appeals, Gordon Routh to the Mitchell Fire Protection District, Lee Paul to the Mitchell Public Water District and Fred Singer to the Pontoon Public Water District.

Adopted a dog leash law for unincorporated areas of the county after it was placed on second reading.

Approved purchase from State Radio & Television of Granite City of 13 to 18,000 BTU air conditioners at $250 each and three 21,000 BTU air conditioners at $265 on the basis of low bids.

REVIEW Tribes loses humanity

THE MOUNTAIN PEOPLE, by Dr. Colin Turnbull; Simon and Schuster; 309 pages; $7.95.

Reviewed By
RICK ORLOV
Copley News Service

The need for food and the sense of survival has been replaced with the desire for money in most Western countries, according to a leading anthropologist.

This, in turn, leads to an increasing sense of isolation from society and the world, says Dr. Colin Turnbull.

Turnbull, a native of England and an American citizen since 1964, said it is now possible for a person with sufficient funds to "cut himself off" without ever coming into contact with another person.

"All I would have to do is pick up the phone, call someone and have them deliver whatever I needed," he said.

"I would just have to make sure I could pay for it."

Turnbull's book is the story of an isolated African tribe known as the Ik (pronounced eek).

The book, which he says is "horrendous" in some of its implications to the modern world, details how a small tribe of less than 1,000 persons loses what Turnbull calls "all sense of humanity."

"There are definite indications that these were once kind, thoughtful people," he said during a wide-ranging interview.

"But, once they lost their ability to hunt and roam freely, they became more concerned with their definition of goodness — to fill one's stomach."

The 49-year-old anthropologist spent a total of 24 months living with the Ik, learning to "despise" them for what they had become, he said.

"I realize it isn't very professional to get involved with the group one is studying," he said. "But, I don't see how one can separate oneself from it."

The Ik were so concerned with getting food, he said, that they displayed no emotion about taking it out of the hands or mouths of their own children, parents or the crippled. No effort was made to help those unable to get their own food, he said.

"In their own way," he added, "they have found a way to survive in this world. I don't know if I can agree to it, but it works for them."

Turnbull said he would like to see more persons break off into small "moral societies" where they become dependent on each other and "learn to be loving."

"Our world is so large," he said. "How can someone living in New York truly sympathize with the destruction of an earthquake in California?"

How many of them have been to California? And, would it matter to them if they are being flooded out?"

The Ik, he said, do not concern themselves with the affairs of others.

Yet, in a seeming contradiction, Turnbull said the Ik children are more secure than many American youngsters.

"For the first three years of an Ik child's life," he said, "the baby is constantly with his mother. When he cries, he is fed — unless he cries too hard and then is slapped. In a word, he becomes socialized."

Increasing numbers of American women are "demanding" the right to leave their child on its own when it is less than a year old, he said.

"Are we any better than the Ik?" he asked. "Our women give birth to a child and then leave it on its own almost immediately."

He added: "This must be very confusing for a child who has no one to hold or feed it. Instead, we give them a plastic bottle and shuttle them off to a day school."

Merchant fleet joins Navy

By L. EDGAR PRINA
Military Affairs
Correspondent
Copley News Service

WASHINGTON — Driven by the money pinch or, as the Pentagon puts it, "fiscal realities," the U.S. Navy has entered a period of integration with the merchant marine unprecedented in our peacetime history.

The new bulk carriers and tankers, together with their older sister ships, are giving credibility to a phrase which had become virtually meaningless since the end of the Korean War — that the merchant marine is America's "fourth arm of defense."

Two years ago, Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt Jr., chief of naval operations, became convinced Congress and the people were determined to increase greatly federal spending for domestic needs.

From this, he concluded that the massive funds needed for the long overdue modernization of the fleet, from warships to auxiliaries, simply would not be appropriated and that the Navy, accordingly, must concentrate its budget on combatants and look to commercial shipping for help in meeting its logistics needs at sea.

Fortunately, Zumwalt found enthusiastic support in the Maritime Administration, then under the leadership of Andrew E. Gibson. A joint Navy-MARAD policy planning group was created to explore the Navy's seafaring requirements and the capabilities of merchant ships to meet them.

The CNO sent the Navy's top strategic thinker, Rear Adm. George H. Miller, to be the Navy's full-time representative to the Maritime Administration. Miller now works closely with Robert J. Blackwell, successor to Gibson as assistant secretary of commerce for maritime affairs.

In a recent address to the Navy League here, Blackwell reviewed the rationale for co-operation and the substantial progress being made.

"It is imperative that the Navy and merchant marine work more closely together," he said. "The Navy is facing budget constraints that limit the number of new ships it can build and the number of men it can recruit."

"The American Merchant Marine, meanwhile, is undergoing the greatest expansion since World War II. It only makes sense under these circumstances to tie the capabilities and missions of our naval and merchant fleets together."

Blackwell noted that "several notable" attempts have been made in the last year to utilize merchant ships for missions previously restricted to naval auxiliaries.

"For example, the civilian tanker Erna Elizabeth, a typical 33,000-ton tanker in the U.S. (merchant) fleet, was chartered by the Navy for an extensive series of under way refueling tests," he said.

"Without any special preparations or training, the ship successfully conducted these exercises with 40 U.S. and North Atlantic Treaty Organization naval vessels, ranging in size from aircraft carriers to frigates, in the Atlantic, Caribbean and Mediterranean."

The MARAD boss reported that more recently the possibility of replacing military crews on auxiliary vessels with civilian merchant mariners was explored when the fleet oiler Taluga was re-crewed and underwent a series of fleet operation maneuvers in the Pacific.

The success of these experiments clearly demonstrates the ability of merchant seamen to acquire themselves well in naval operations," Blackwell asserted.

During fiscal 1974, which begins next July 1, the Navy is planning to substitute civilian for military crews on two additional oilers, three cable ships and two fleet tugs. The following year, a Navy reefer ship will be re-crewed.

Blackwell saw these major benefits for both the Navy and the merchant marine if the efforts were successful.

A new market would be opened for America's merchant seamen, many of whom have been out of work as a result of the winding down of the war in Indochina and of the layup and sale of obsolete ships.

"Hard-to-attract" uniformed personnel would be freed for combat-related tasks, thus increasing the Navy's return on its investment in these volunteers.

CHILDREN Praise needed too

By DR. WILLARD
ABRAHAM
Copley News Service

Q. Our little girl (she's 7) was in a class play at school, and I'll be honest with you — she was far from good in it. She mumbled lines, was dressed sloppily, walked on at the wrong times, and other things like that. It wasn't easy for my wife and me to sit through it all. Other children didn't do much better, but their parents apparently felt less concern than I did. That evening I told my daughter how I felt about her and the whole performance, and my wife thought I came on too "strong." I believe in honesty and facing up to issues even though it may hurt. Was I wrong?

A. Do you come on just as strongly when your little girl does something of which you approve?

Children — like adults — deserve and profit from praise as well as criticism, but sometimes parents get in the fault-finding habit and forget the need of all of us have for approval.

What you may perhaps overlook is the fact that she's only 7. Your direct approach could cause her gradually to be turned off as far as performing of any kind is concerned.

Sure, honesty is a virtue, but a little praise and restraint may also pay off in the long run.

Q. I keep hearing that the tide has turned, and long hair for boys and men is on its way out. You wouldn't think so by looking at my family. My husband and three boys all have and cherish their curly locks. It doesn't really bother me, but in retaliation, I cut mine off. My hair is not only shorter than any of theirs, but I get kidded by friends as being the only boy in the family! By the way, my short hair hasn't encouraged any of them to cut theirs, so I think I'll just let mine grow and roll with it all.

A. That's an interesting sequence of events. You said their long hair really doesn't bother you, then cut yours, hope it'll change their minds, notice your friends' comments on the subject and realize your effort hasn't paid off. Apparently it's all been more important to you than you'll admit even to yourself.

It just sounds as though you're outnumbered by the men in your family, and your philosophical decision to "roll with it" is a sound one. More of us ought to stop battering ourselves, realize when our cause is lost, and enjoy the more significant factors related to our families.

Nursery school, kindergarten — how to select, is your child ready? Send stamped, return envelope to Dr. Abraham, P.O. Box 15704, Phoenix, Arizona 85060 for complete list.

McKendree Boosters to honor Jeffries at award dinner

Mike Jeffries, Altan High School graduate who was a standout basketball player at the University of Missouri in Columbia, will be honored as the regional athlete of the year by the McKendree College Boosters May 20.

The annual $10-a-plate award dinner will be held at 6:30 p.m. May 20 in the Bearcat Gym. Each year the Bearcat Gym is open to students who graduated from an area high school and became a star at another college. McKendree students are not eligible.

Jeffries was co-captain of the 1972-73 Missouri Tigers, who finished 21-5 and ranked 13th in the nation.

Jeffries, a two-sport prep standout, had to make a choice between football and basketball. The bulky 6'3 athlete chose basketball — much to Coach Norm Stewart's elation — and the second-guessers immediately speculated that Mike had picked up the chance for a bonus contract in "the money sport."

When Jeffries concluded a productive three-year career for the Tigers, the pros were aware of the sick-passing, good-shooting backliner's capabilities. He was drafted by the Kansas City-Omaha Kings, and there are many who feel he has an excellent chance to make the grade.

Jeffries showed his versatility for Missouri by playing both forward and guard—moving to the backcourt as a senior to fill a void for Stewart's Bengals. During his three competitive seasons in Missouri fashioned an overall 59-21 record—and twice was invited to the National Invitational Tournament in New York City.

Cougarettes are unbeaten

The dreams of the women's intercollegiate softball team at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville came true Monday afternoon as SIUE defeated Principia College at Elmhurst, 5-0. The Cougarettes finished the season with an undefeated 9-0 record.

"They (the Cougarettes) did everything we had predicted they would do, and they played superior softball," Rosemarie Archangel, women's athletic director, said.

A summary of season batting records per game shows the Cougarettes averaged 15 runs, 16 hits, 1.0 doubles, 1.3 triples, 1.5 homers and 0.4 sacrifices.

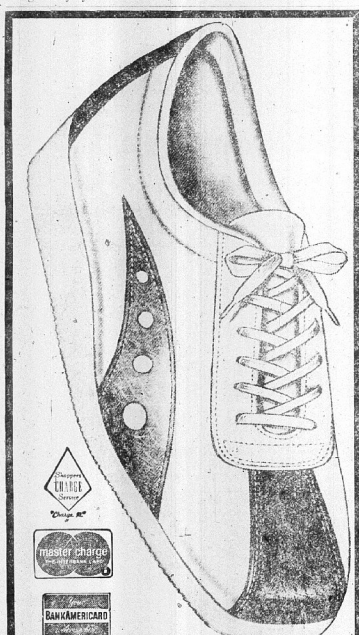

Team batting totals show that out of 364 times-at-bat, the Cougarettes had a record of 135 runs, 12 doubles, nine triples, 16 homers, four sacrifices and an overall batting average of .467. The team plays a slow-pitch game.

This was the first academic year at SIUE for women's intercollegiate sports.

Names of defendant, officer were confused

An article Monday evening in attempting to give the name of Joseph Ginnell as one of those indicted for theft of an auto May 1 in Venice.

The article incorrectly listed the defendant as "Joseph Ginnell, Katoe," inadvertently confusing his name with that of the arresting officer. The Press-Record regrets the error, which resulted from misinterpretation of grand jury records.

Warriors bow to Kahoks 11-4 for district baseball title

The Granite City High School baseball Warriors were knocked out of the district title by Collinsville 11-4 Wednesday at Edwardsville.

On Monday GCHS won its opener against Edwardsville 2-1, while Collinsville blanked Madison on Tuesday 7-0.

Collinsville batters collected 15 hits as their line score read 0-1-4-2-3. The Warriors, with seven hits, scored 1-0-1-0-0-2-4.

Mark Boone was charged with the loss. Three other Warrior pitchers, John Stanton, Gary Simpson, and John Serch were unable to stop the Kahoks.

"We played very poor ball," Warrior Coach Gale Garb commented later. "We had several early chances and blew them with poor base running. The three home runs off our pitchers did not help either."

The Warriors are now 15-0 and will host East St. Louis at 4 p.m. Tuesday in a Southwestern Conference make-up game.

In the opening round of the district tournament Monday GCHS edged out the host Tigers 2-1 in nine innings. The Warriors tagged seven hits and committed one error.

Winning pitcher Jim Stanton fanned 10, walked five and allowed only three hits. He got in trouble the last inning as the bases were loaded with two men out when Mark Boone took the mound and fanned the last Tiger.

GCHS scored its runs in the ninth as Linhart and Strohmeier were hit by pitch balls advanced to second and third on a pass ball, and Mudd singled deep into left field driving them home.

In the second round on Tuesday the Warriors will face the St. Mary's Cougars in a game scheduled for 2 p.m. at the new diamond located in the Murrell Industrial park while Mercer will be idle.

The new diamond was built by Jim Greer, Booster's manager, and members of his team as the Third Street diamond is now being used by the expanded Madison softball league.

"We are getting some of our big sticks back with us now that the school baseball season is coming to a close," Greer said. "All I regret our regular catcher who has been going to school in Kansas City and hitting .416, will be with us and my son Jay Greer who has been hitting .367 for Madison High School will be back."

Our ace pitcher John Piechowski, who hurled for Assumption, will be on the mound and Frank Papa from St. Louis University, who is really tough in relief, is also coming back.

"Roxana is new to our league but they have some real good ball players. They have been in the 3M League north of us and should offer some stiff competition."

With our 400 hitters and tough pitching I hope it will rain hits in Madison Sunday," Greer concluded.

In other Inter-City action Van's of East Alton will play Highland-Pierion on the Pierion diamond and Molitor of Collinsville will play the Indians at Plaza.

The Godfrey Thrashers bowling team won a main game in the Thrasher High Hopes of Granite City at Bowling Tuesday.

Taking two of three games, the winners out-pinned High Hopes 1,984 to 1,930. Members of the winning team were Betty Cason, Darlene Scanlon, Joyce Benton, Cathy Fisher and Fran Manic.

The Trojans made two hits, by Carl Turner who led off the first inning with a single and Cedric Wilson, a pinch hitter, tagged one in the seventh.

The Trojans won their season with a 5-15 record.

The basebal Cougars of southern Illinois University at Edwardsville maintained a second-place collegiate division rating in the nation this week despite an 11-5 shelling from the hands of the University of Missouri - St. Louis Riverhounds Tuesday at Cougar Field.

SIUE is scheduled to wind up its regular season with a pair of double headers Friday and Saturday with Austin Peay University of Tennessee, both starting at 1 p.m.

The Cougars then will play Cleveland State at 3 p.m. next Thursday in the Mid-east NCAA college division regional baseball tournament at Cougar Field. Other pairings show Marietta (Ohio) College (21-4) Naving North Central of Naperville, Ill. (21-5) in the 10 a.m. Eastern and Indiana Central of Indianapolis (16-2) meeting Eastern Illinois (18-8) at 1 p.m. It will be a double elimination event to be completed on the following Saturday.

A warmup twin bill for the Cougars with Eastern Illinois scheduled for yesterday was called off at the request of SIUE.

The Tuesday game with UMSL was something different.

It was the first time in eight games going back to 1968 that UMSL had been able to defeat the Cougars in baseball, and it was the Rivermen's season record to a brilliant 20-5, while Coach Roy E. Lee's SIUE charges are now 22-3.

Playing with a patched-up lineup, the Cougars obviously were jittery from the first and this unsteadiness affected the hurling of their top pitcher, Ron Reiffing, who saw his record drop to 6-1 with his first defeat. SIUE fielders committed seven errors.

Out of the Cougar lineup was the heart of their infield strength, shortstop Pat Peterson, suffering from a pulled hamstring, and a second baseman, Tom Twellman, who underwent exploratory chest surgery Wednesday.

In addition to Peterson's and Twellman's defensive play, the Cougars missed Pat's 22nd and Tom's 31st batting averages.

The Rivermen were loaded for a big win, jumping out to a 2-0 lead in the opening frame as Mike Caraffa led off with a hard-hit single to right. Two wild pitches by Reiffing after Jim Munden's single permitted both to score and the Rivermen were never behind.

However, in the last half of the seventh, the Cougars made their challenge and scored four runs to cut UMSL's lead to 6-4 as subs Bill Campbell and Jim Greer came through with clutch hits. Not to be denied, the Rivermen bounced right back and scored four of their own in the eighth.

Caraffa, the Rivermen's star, led all hitters with a 4-for-6 day.

It is possible, of course, that the two teams could meet again, both are in regional NCAA tournaments and each went to the championship finals last year at Springfield and could do so again. In that match, the Cougars won to eliminate the Rivermen. But that was last year.

Inter-City Boosters to host Roxana on Sunday

Inter-City baseball action Sunday will see the St. Mary's Boosters host Roxana at 2 p.m. on the new diamond located in the Murrell Industrial park while Mercer will be idle.

The new diamond was built by Jim Greer, Booster's manager, and members of his team as the Third Street diamond is now being used by the expanded Madison softball league.

"We are getting some of our big sticks back with us now that the school baseball season is coming to a close," Greer said. "All I regret our regular catcher who has been going to school in Kansas City and hitting .416, will be with us and my son Jay Greer who has been hitting .367 for Madison High School will be back."

Our ace pitcher John Piechowski, who hurled for Assumption, will be on the mound and Frank Papa from St. Louis University, who is really tough in relief, is also coming back.

"Roxana is new to our league but they have some real good ball players. They have been in the 3M League north of us and should offer some stiff competition."

With our 400 hitters and tough pitching I hope it will rain hits in Madison Sunday," Greer concluded.

In other Inter-City action Van's of East Alton will play Highland-Pierion on the Pierion diamond and Molitor of Collinsville will play the Indians at Plaza.

The Godfrey Thrashers bowling team won a main game in the Thrasher High Hopes of Granite City at Bowling Tuesday.

Taking two of three games, the winners out-pinned High Hopes 1,984 to 1,930. Members of the winning team were Betty Cason, Darlene Scanlon, Joyce Benton, Cathy Fisher and Fran Manic.

The Trojans made two hits, by Carl Turner who led off the first inning with a single and Cedric Wilson, a pinch hitter, tagged one in the seventh.

The Trojans won their season with a 5-15 record.

The basebal Cougars of southern Illinois University at Edwardsville maintained a second-place collegiate division rating in the nation this week despite an 11-5 shelling from the hands of the University of Missouri - St. Louis Riverhounds Tuesday at Cougar Field.

SIUE is scheduled to wind up its regular season with a pair of double headers Friday and Saturday with Austin Peay University of Tennessee, both starting at 1 p.m.

The Cougars then will play Cleveland State at 3 p.m. next Thursday in the Mid-east NCAA college division regional baseball tournament at Cougar Field. Other pairings show Marietta (Ohio) College (21-4) Naving North Central of Naperville, Ill. (21-5) in the 10 a.m. Eastern and Indiana Central of Indianapolis (16-2) meeting Eastern Illinois (18-8) at 1 p.m. It will be a double elimination event to be completed on the following Saturday.

A warmup twin bill for the Cougars with Eastern Illinois scheduled for yesterday was called off at the request of SIUE.

It was the first time in eight games going back to 1968 that UMSL had been able to defeat the Cougars in baseball, and it was the Rivermen's season record to a brilliant 20-5, while Coach Roy E. Lee's SIUE charges are now 22-3.

Playing with a patched-up lineup, the Cougars obviously were jittery from the first and this unsteadiness affected the hurling of their top pitcher, Ron Reiffing, who saw his record drop to 6-1 with his first defeat. SIUE fielders committed seven errors.

Out of the Cougar lineup was the heart of their infield strength, shortstop Pat Peterson, suffering from a pulled hamstring, and a second baseman, Tom Twellman, who underwent exploratory chest surgery Wednesday.

In addition to Peterson's and Twellman's defensive play, the Cougars missed Pat's 22nd and Tom's 31st batting averages.

The Rivermen were loaded for a big win, jumping out to a 2-0 lead in the opening frame as Mike Caraffa led off with a hard-hit single to right. Two wild pitches by Reiffing after Jim Munden's single permitted both to score and the Rivermen were never behind.

However, in the last half of the seventh, the Cougars made their challenge and scored four runs to cut UMSL's lead to 6-4 as subs Bill Campbell and Jim Greer came through with clutch hits. Not to be denied, the Rivermen bounced right back and scored four of their own in the eighth.

Caraffa, the Rivermen's star, led all hitters with a 4-for-6 day.

It is possible, of course, that the two teams could meet again, both are in regional NCAA tournaments and each went to the championship finals last year at Springfield and could do so again. In that match, the Cougars won to eliminate the Rivermen. But that was last year.

Geological Survey plans final trip of season

The picturesque Apple River Canyon country will be part of the itinerary on the Illinois State Geological Survey's last geological science field trip of the spring season in July.

The Stockton area in Jo Daviess County, locale of the tour, lies along the boundary between the Rock River Hill Country and the Wisconsin Driftless Section of northwestern Illinois.

Dave Reinertson, field trip conductor, said the region's scenic, hilly topography is largely controlled by an irregular bedrock surface thinly mantled by Pleistocene glacial deposits.

Exposed bedrock ranges in age from middle Ordovician, more than 450 million years old, to middle Silurian, less than 420 million years old, he said. The shales and dolomites are fossiliferous, containing brachiopods, bryozoa "biscuits," and corals.

Participants should assemble at Stockton High School at 8 a.m. Saturday. There is no charge for the trip, but participants must furnish their own transportation, lunch and any collecting equipment they desire, and should be prepared for any kind of weather.

Vehicles should start the trip with full gas tanks. The Survey's Educational Extension Section, which will conduct the trip, encourages teachers to attend, although the general public is welcome.

Questions about the tour may be directed to the Educational Extension Section, Illinois State Geological Survey, Natural Resources Building, Urbana, Ill. 61801; telephone 217-243-1481.

Scout-O-Rama Saturday to be 'greatest show'

By WALTER STRANGE
Press-Record Staff Writer

The "Greatest Show On Earth" at one time was attributed to a famous circus, but in the hearts of the thousands of Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Explorers in the Quad-Cities area, the greatest show will be held between 11 a.m. and 8 p.m. Saturday at the Wilson Park tent.

What the Scouts are so excited about is the Scout-O-Rama, a walk-around show demonstrating every phase of the various programs in the Boy Scouts of America.

Exhibits such as cooking, camping, fishing, games, handicraft, Indian dancing, law enforcement, skill awards, merit badges—you name it—and probably will be on exhibit in one of the 45 booths.

Tickets sell for $1 each and may be obtained in advance from any Cub Scout or Explorer or may be bought at the door.

Monies raised from the show help support the individual Scout units, buy equipment for the individual Scouts and help with the general operation of the Cahokia Mound Council, Boy Scouts of America.

Relax highway rules for mobile homes

Illinois rules on highway shipments of mobile homes will be relaxed to aid Mississippi River area flood victims. Gov. Dan Walker said this week.

Only shipments specially designated for disaster relief in the Mississippi River flood area may qualify for the special permits, the governor said.

The emergency shipments may be 80 feet long, including the tractor, instead of the usual 70 feet, and may travel at night with special warning lights.

In addition, weekend travel will not be restricted except for the Memorial Day weekend—from noon May 25 through sunrise May 29.

Gov. Walker's action came in response to a request to the Illinois Department of Transportation from the federal Office of Emergency Preparedness, Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The relaxed rules for the emergency shipments will be in force until July 1.

Illinois coal on way to Scotland for energy test

It may be inappropriate to "carry coals to Newcastle" but would you believe a massive shipment of Illinois coal now is headed for a small Scottish community just 100 miles north of there?

Ten thousand tons of Illinois bituminous — 150 fully loaded rail cars — have been moved out of the Streamline Mine in downstate Randolph County, ultimately destined for Westfield, Scotland, just a short haul from the renowned British mining community of Newcastle, it was disclosed Tuesday.

The coal will be tested later this year at Westfield to determine whether it can be converted — through a process known as gasification — to a new, substitute energy source similar to natural gas.

The coal is being furnished by Illinois Power Co. and seven other major Illinois utilities participating in the Coal Gasification Group (CGG) and by the Illinois Coal Operators Association.

The tests are part of a $2.3 million industry-government research program financed by member companies of the American Gas Association and the Department of Interior's Office of Coal Research.

"The Illinois utilities, by pooling their resources in CGG, are studying ways of using the state's vast bituminous deposits as a source of supply for a future coal gasification program," W. C. Gerstner, Illinois Power Co. vice-president, said.

"Such a program could lead to the production of a clean-burning substitute gas transformed from solid coal," Gerstner is the IP representative in the Illinois group.

Tests will be conducted in Scotland to make use of existing facilities that employ what is known as the Lurgi gasification process. This process, the primary commercial method of gasification used today, is not yet in operation in the United States.

Tests on large volumes of Illinois bituminous will determine whether Lurgi technology can be modified to successfully gasify this type coal. The Westfield facilities have become available for testing purposes with the phase-out of the plant's commercial gas production, which is being supplanted by recent natural gas discoveries in the North Sea.

Woodall-Duckham, a British engineering and contracting firm, will modify the plant and conduct the test in cooperation with the British Gas Corp. and Lurgi Gesellschaften, the West German firm which developed the process.

When testing begins in July, the Illinois tonnage will be the first large-volume samples to be tried under the modified process.

The 10,000-ton sample supplied for the test originated from the Streamline Mine at Percy, Ill., near Sparta. It was moved by rail to Mobile, Ala., then loaded aboard an Italian freighter, Umberto D'Amato, for shipment to the Scottish port of Leith, near Edinburgh.

Donation of the test coal is one of several programs advanced by CGG since it was formed in 1971 by authority of the Illinois Commerce Commission. In addition to Illinois Power, other CGG members include Central Illinois Light Co., Peoria; Central Illinois Public Service Co., Springfield; Commonwealth Edison Co., Chicago; Iowa-Illinois Gas and Electric Co., Davenport, Ia.; Northern Illinois Gas Co., Aurora; The Peoples Gas, Light and Coke Co., Chicago; and North Shore Gas Co., Waukegan.

Other CGG programs now underway include a continuing assessment of the energy gap in Illinois; the feasibility of various gasification processes, including the Lurgi method; the current project; study of potential coal gasification plant sites in Illinois and methods of organizing, financing and operating such plants within the state.

"Illinois, which leads the U.S. in bituminous coal reserves, appears to be a promising area for such a plant," Gerstner said. "Plentiful coal supplies, coupled with a feasible gasification technology, could offer the prospect of a vast new energy source for the state's residents and an entirely new industry capable of revitalizing currently depressed coal mining activities in downstate areas."

In addition to the 10,000-ton coal shipment provided by CGG and the Illinois Coal Operators Association for the Westfield test program, two other grades of U.S. bituminous also will be evaluated with the modified Lurgi process. These are a sub-bituminous coal from coals include Pittsburgh No. 8, and a sub-bituminous coal from Montana.

Tests on large volumes of Illinois bituminous will determine whether Lurgi technology can be modified to successfully gasify this type coal. The Westfield facilities have become available for testing purposes with the phase-out of the plant's commercial gas production, which is being supplanted by recent natural gas discoveries in the North Sea.

Woodall-Duckham, a British engineering and contracting firm, will modify the plant and conduct the test in cooperation with the British Gas Corp. and Lurgi Gesellschaften, the West German firm which developed the process.

Venice park officials retained by new board

All officers and employees of the Venice Park District were retained during the reorganization meeting of the Park Board Tuesday night.

John Mitchell was re-elected as president, Clifford Caver as vice-president, Leroy Kutz as secretary, and Margaret Fichte as board treasurer.

Harry Hartman remains attorney, William Spencer was retained as superintendent of parks and Charles Simmons will continue as recreation director.

Salaries for the paid officials — attorney, superintendent, recreation director, treasurer and secretary — were kept at last year's levels.

The board approved a summer sports recreation program for school-age children. The program will include basketball, tennis, golf instruction, volleyball and other sports where interest is shown.

Pamphlets explaining the program are being printed and will be distributed in the schools and door-to-door in the city by the Venice Lions Club.

Students interested in entering may have their parents sign the consent forms in the pamphlets and should return them to the schools, the park district or to one of its registration sessions planned.

Registration will be conducted on two consecutive Saturdays, May 19 and 26, beginning at 9 a.m. and continuing all day each Saturday at the Venice Lee Park Recreation Center.

Planning also is underway for an arts and crafts program for the summer, the Park Board members were told.

Police crackdown on car licenses pledged

Granite City residents must have city vehicle licenses displayed on their car by Sunday, GC Chief of Police Ronald Veizer warned yesterday.

He said the police department would begin making arrests next week of motorists without the license stickers.

Flood victims get aid for household items

Vouchers to Illinois flood stricken families, rebuffed by the U.S. Department of Housing & Urban Development, for purchase of essential housekeeping items are being issued at the ten Office of Emergency Preparedness managed Individual Assistance Centers.

Among the centers is the Vocational Rehabilitation Center, 913 Martin Luther King Drive, East St. Louis, and the Jerseyville Courthouse.

The vouchers will entitle the displaced family to purchase such necessary items as pots, dishes, brooms, mops and/or certain other items as his/her call for. The individual's entitlement will be determined by the HUD interviewer at the assistance center where he applied for temporary housing.

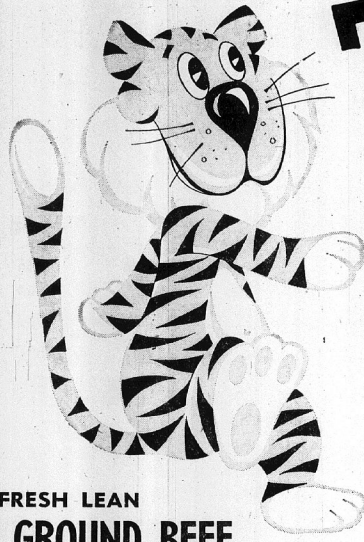

Area merchants throughout the state are requested to honor these government purchase orders, "Standard Form 147" which the individual will present for purchase of those various essential items that he has been deemed eligible for.

Items purchased by the family are non-returnable to the merchant and the voucher is paid by the Federal Government with funds provided by the President's Disaster Fund. Merchants having questions concerning the vouchers are to contact the assistance center nearest them.

Songs from "Fiddler on the Roof" were sung by Mrs. Beverly Schrogens and Paul Mabry, accompanied at the piano by Miss Christy Ashcraft. A solo by Miss Alicia Hendrickson, Mrs. Stevens accompanied, also was presented.

Clarence Baumeier served as master of ceremonies and the Rev. Robert Kettelhub, pastor of St. Peter Evangelical United Church of Christ, gave the invocation.

The Rev. and Mrs. Samuel Boda of the host church showed slides of their trip to the Holy Land as the second part of the evening program.

During the business session the annual report compiled by Mrs. Whittle listed 369 cases involving 1410 persons who were aided during 1972. This includes 141 new cases, 94 recurrent and 164 incidental cases.

The Welfare Association also distributed 166 orders of clothing and shoes from the store room, estimated in value at $1,017, and household articles valued at $187. Also distributed were 235 relief orders and 69 Christmas orders, amounting to $6,712.

In addition to food and clothing, the local office has wheel chairs, hospital beds, walkers and crutches to loan to the public.

There are 32 churches and three organizations that belong to the Protestant Welfare Association. The ministers of the churches serve as directors for the day and counsel with people, in addition to helping them materially.

This was the third year that the organization participated in the Mobile Meals program by providing volunteer workers from the various churches and civic organizations, according to the report.

Mrs. Irma Taylor was chairman of the meeting, assisted by Jean Uherick, Mr. and Mrs. Baumeier and Mrs. Kenneth Whittington.

Car hits warehouse, burns; driver hurt

Calvin Hall, St. Louis, was injured Monday when his auto went out of control and struck a south side overhead door at the St. L.-is Terminals Corp. building in the Granite City harbor area.

Sylvester Thomas, a machine operator at the terminal, pulled Hall from the car while Louis Williams, a crane operator, called police, an ambulance and the fire department.

When firemen arrived, they pulled the burning car out of the doorway with a chain, using a pumper truck. The fire was extinguished in the terminal parking lot.

Miss Sheryl Sue Blochberger, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Blochberger, 38 Moorland Drive, and John Blochberger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Smith, 2436 Benton st., were united in marriage in an evening ceremony at 7:30 p.m. at the First Baptist Church, 21st Street and Delmar Avenue. Miss Beverly Denderson presided at the organ for James Hargraves as he sang, "The Wedding Song," "More" and "The Hawaiian Wedding Song." Performing the double-ring ceremony at 7 o'clock was the Rev. Ray Eitleman before an altar decorated with urns of fresh spring flowers and burning tapers in branched candelabra.

Escorted down the white carpeted aisle and given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full-length gown fashioned of lace. A white satin ribbon accented the waist and ruffled cuffs of the long fitted sleeves.

The neckline was edged with a nylon organza ruffle that was repeated on the hem of the full skirt.

A lace bonnet headpiece secured her long mantilla veil and she carried a bouquet of white Sweetheart roses, yellow carnations and baby breath.

Maid of honor Miss Kathy Davis wore a formal-length gown created in a light blue knit. A delicate white lace trimmed the high collar and short sleeves.

Bridesmaids, Mrs. Linda Smith, a sister-in-law of the groom, Mrs. Richard Kamm, the groom's sister, Miss Linda Chastain and Miss Kellee Blochberger, a sister of the bride, wore identical styled gowns in spring shades of yellow, green, pink and lavender.

Each of the attendants wore a wide-brimmed hat to match her frock and held bouquets of daisies.

Stefanie Kamm and Daniel Smith, the groom's niece and nephew, served as flower girl and ringbearer. She wore a lace dress enhanced with pastel colored bows and carried a basket of rosebuds.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Smith, wore a pink knit with a matching sleeveless coat and pink accessories.

Miss Sarah Evans registered the guests at a reception held at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Hall immediately following the service. Miss Monica Kamm assisted at the reception, distributing rice crackers.

Create 16 new school positions

The Granite City Board of Education Tuesday night created 16 personnel positions to help staff the new Granite City High School/North and to reorganize the guidance and data processing functions at both schools.

Several changes were made in plans for guidance, attendance and data programming which will require hiring of an assistant data programmer at $9,500, three assistant secretaries at a total cost of $18,729, and an additional guidance counselor at $11,200.

The total for hiring the personnel was estimated at $39,429 per year plus Illinois Municipal Retirement benefits, insurance and cost of living increases.

It had been estimated that the cost of duplicating services at the new school now in operation at South would cost about $38,400. The board agreed the new alignment of personnel would provide greater efficiency and would be worth the extra $1,029 per year.

The new assistant programmer would provide services related to attendance and processing of attendance data for both high schools and later would assume the duties of coordinating transportation of pupils.

The titles of boys and girls deans at GCHS/S were eliminated and the attendance function was transferred from the deans to data processing. Attendance duties will be coordinated through one assistant principal at each school.

Two guidance positions were eliminated at GCHS/S while positions for one pupil personnel services coordinator at each school were created. The P.P.S. workers will coordinate guidance, nursing, social worker and speech therapist functions.

A full time secretarial position was created for GCHS/S to perform clerical and secretarial duties for both schools now being performed by guidance personnel. At GCHS/N, one secretary will be assigned to half time duties in that area.

Four guidance positions were created at North, three of which will be filled by reductions in the number of junior high school secretaries.

Two secretarial positions school counselors were created at South to assist with attendance reporting and recording.

The board also agreed to create positions for a lead custodian, six assistant custodians and two matrons for the new high school.

It was indicated additional custodial and matron positions may be created at a later date.

Other positions created included an additional science teaching post at North and an additional teacher of the deaf at Johnson School. The teacher of the deaf would replace a teacher-aide position now in existence.

It is estimated there will be 21 dead students in Special Education programs in the region next year, all of which will be taught at Johnson.

Venice to check for sewer flood damages

A thorough survey of Venice sewer lines will be made as soon as the Mississippi River recedes below flood stage to determine the extent of flood damage to the lines, City Council members decided in regular meeting Tuesday night.

Mayor John E. Lee noted that the city will need to detail any damages suffered from flood waters to be eligible for federal aid under the government's flood disaster relief program. Illinois has been declared a flood disaster area and municipalities and other tax bodies are eligible for funds to repair damaged property.

Benjamin Honorable, Venice director of Civil Defense, was awarded a certificate during Tuesday's meeting marking his compliance with Civil Defense requirements at a two-day seminar in Effingham. The certificate was presented by Mayor Lee.

Degree to be awarded

Donna Calvert Francis of Granite City is to receive a bachelor of arts degree at 2:30 p.m. May 26 during the 1973 commencement of Oakland City College, Oakland City, Ind. Dr. Alan C. Rankin, president of Indiana State University, will be the speaker at the Wood Memorial High School gymnasium.

MAN DISPLAYS GUN

Mrs. Bertha Wasylyk, 2313 Grand Ave., reported a man came to her front door at 8:40 a.m. Tuesday, pointed a gun at her and then left without saying anything. A neighbor said the man also pointed the gun at her as he was leaving.

Lewis and Clark Community College has contracted with the Southwestern Illinois Law Enforcement Commission to conduct a 32-hour mobile team in-service police training program for smaller departments on a basis indicated by various chiefs that would permit their officers to take advantage of the refresher update training.

The mobile team will conduct its first of 13 weekly training sessions at the Venice Police Department offices, Broadway and Klein streets, Venice.

Starting date is Tuesday, May 22, and the morning session will start at 8 o'clock and end at noon.

Repeated evening sessions will run from 4 to 8 o'clock.

The one-day-a-week in-service training program will permit police officers from nearby departments to attend regardless of their duty shift. All local police officers are being invited to attend and a certificate will be awarded to each officer successfully completing the training.

There is no charge to the officer for the training program, which is available for all commissioned police officers. An Illinois Law Enforcement Commission grant to the Southwestern Enforcement Commission provides the funding.

ATTEMPTED MOLESTING

Four Logan School girls reported at 8:50 a.m. Wednesday that while they were on the way to school at W. 23rd Street and Illinois Avenue a man in a parked auto tried to entice them into the car. They ran, but the man circled the block and invited them to enter the car a second time. They ran again. The girls said he had two small children inside. He was described as being 30 to 35 with black hair and a mustache.

Steelworkers to aid flood relief agency finances

Members of the United Steelworkers of America, AFL-CIO, throughout Illinois, Missouri and Iowa have been asked to "open their hearts and purses" to assist flood victims.

Steelworkers District 34 Director Lloyd McBride has asked each local to set up plant-gate collections and also to make generous union treasury contributions to the "Steelworkers Flood Relief Fund."

McBride told the locals that "this action is consistent with the Steelworkers' tradition of helping those in need."

Funds collected will go directly to private agencies engaged in flood relief activities in those communities affected along the borders of the Mississippi, Missouri and Illinois rivers.

Agencies wishing to make application for funds are to contact the United Steelworkers of America District 34 Office, 1206 Paul Brown Building, 818 Olive St., St. Louis, Mo. 63101.

Environmental 'cleanup' heads list of Nameoki uses of revenue sharing funds

An environmental cleanup program that would cost an estimated $50,000 was given priority Monday night in a slush phase program recommended to the Nameoki Town Board for use of federal revenue sharing funds allocated to Nameoki Township.

The cleanup program was urged along with five other recommended projects costing an additional $33,000. The township expects to receive approximately $100,000 in revenue sharing funds for the 1972 and 1973 years.

The projects were recommended by the town board's executive committee headed by Supervisor Louis Whitsell after a plan to use revenue sharing funds for a trash collection program operated by the township was prohibited by state law.

In addition to the environmental cleanup program, the committee recommended replacement of the State Park bridge at a cost of $20,000, Long Lake Fire district fire hydrant at $10,000, township building improvements, $10,000; acquisition of land and development of a township park, $10,000; and animal control, $3,000.

A proposed budget for the cleanup program includes expenditure of $14,300 for street sweeping and ditch cleaning, $13,500 for brush removal and trash cleanup, $18,500 for road drainage improvements, $1,000 for machinery repairs, $200 for painting and $2,200 for purchase of new equipment.

The town board also heard a delegation from the Deberry Slough area of Nameoki Township who urged township officials to influence other taxing agencies to fulfill their responsibilities in accomplishing drainage improvements in the slough area.

State Sen. Sam Vadalabene (D-Edwardsville) informed the town board by letter that he has sent to the legislative reference bureau a request for a bill that would amend the Town Refuse Act to permit townships to operate their own trash collection systems.

Vadalabene said he requested the amending legislation in response to a letter from Whitsell asking that a change in the present law be made.

The board also was informed that Whitsell has requested Senator Vadalabene to initiate legislation under which land use plans adopted by counties would supersede those of cities and villages whenever the county plan was stricter than that of the municipalities.

The board's legislative committee reported that an Illinois House bill under which terms of township supervisors elected in 1971 would be extended from four years to six years had failed to pass on third reading. The committee also reported that Illinois legislation permitting establishing of bicycle trails has been approved by the Senate Transportation committee and is now on the Senate floor.

The township building committee reported that preliminary plans for construction of a community center and the expansion or construction of township office facilities were discussed with representatives of Cohen & Associates, Inc., and William Flippo Architects & Associates.

Proposals have been received from both companies and were referred to the finance committee for a recommendation, the board was told.

The board's road and bridge committee reported that an unused street off Maryville Road, one block from Morrison Road, is privately owned and not within the jurisdiction of the township highway department. The area is being used as a dumping ground, the committee reported.

The board was asked to send a letter to Jack Franden of the Madison County Land Use committee, asking that the county take steps to halt the dumping.

An ordinance limiting vehicle loads to five tons on Park Lane between Breckenridge Lane and the limits of Pontoon Beach was adopted.

County plan provides 80 jobs for needy children

A program to provide summer jobs for about 80 needy school children in the county was outlined to the Madison County Board by Dan Churovich, director of the county emergency employment program, at a board meeting Wednesday morning.

Churovich told the board that the U. S. Department of Labor offered to make $37,800 available for the purpose if the board will match it with $4,200. The board agreed to do so.

Under the program needy youths can be hired for seven weeks during the summer for 20 hours a week at a pay rate of $2.70 per hour.

He has requested that board members determine candidates for jobs from their own district, with the remainder employed from the more disadvantaged areas of the county. Application forms may be obtained from board members who should have them by Friday.

day and be filed with the office of the Illinois State Employment Service which will screen them and return them to Churovich for employment.

Churovich said there will be only one job title — "Summer youth worker", and that jobs would include cleanup and removal of debris from flood damage, work in parks, cleanup of county buildings and assist in cleaning of homes of flood victims.

The director said ISES would rate the applications on a ratio of poverty, with income, size of family and need to be main factors. State aid income will not be considered as income.

To determine whether a person is poor, the following income criteria will apply: Family size of one, $2,100; two, $2,725; three, $3,450; four, $4,200; five, $4,925; six, $5,550; and seven, $6,200. Income limits for families of more than seven can be determined by adding $650 for each person.

Percy warned Nixon in 1970 -- President's 'worst enemies' were in the White House

By LESTER BELL
Copley News Service

Sen. Charles H. Percy, after his independent views incurred the "great displeasure" of John Ehrlichman and H. R. Haldeman, warned the President in December 1970 that some of Mr. Nixon's "worst enemies" were in the White House.

The Illinois Republican, disclosing this in a news conference this spring, said in response to questions that he was "intimidated" by ranking White House aides for his opposition to the anti-ballistic missile and the President's nomination of Judge Harold Carswell to the Supreme Court.

Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson, Percy's Democratic colleague, had only a short statement on the President's surprise announcement of four resignations. "The President appears now to be taking steps to put his house in order," Stevenson said. "We should reserve final judgment until the President has spoken and the courts have acted. The fight for decency in government must be won in the Courtroom, the Statehouse and the White House." Although Ehrlichman took the brunt of Percy's criticism, the senator also mentioned Haldeman in the same context.

Percy said Ehrlichman told him "clearly" that his anti-administration views "would cost me the National Home Ownership Foundation" for which the senator had worked so doggedly.

Percy said he related his experiences to the President upon his return from a Southeast Asian trip undertaken for Mr. Nixon, and that the President asked him "to be specific."

"I was specific," Percy said. "I implied strongly that some of the worst enemies he had were right in the White House."

Percy said he "felt deeply" about the Carswell nomination and that although the President said he wanted his confirmation vote he could understand Percy's reservations and would not press him to change his mind.

Percy attributed "pressure tactics" to a personal "fierce loyalty" to the President by his top aides that amounted to a "false loyalty."

He said such misplaced "zeal" was a disservice to constitutional government and the electorate.

Percy held the news conference in the senate press gallery after he withdrew, pending ing President Nixon's nationwide broadcast, a resolution calling for a special prosecutor in the Watergate case.

Percy praised the courage, conviction and integrity of Elliot L. Richardson, but he believed on principle that President Nixon should appoint someone outside the executive department. Richardson is to leave the Defense Department to head the Justice Department as successor to Richard G. Kleindienst, who resigned.

Percy told reporters he believes some good will flow from Watergate.

"Thank God," he said, "for the fact we now have stopped the process, the established pattern to intimidate Congress, the media."

This triggered the question of whether Percy had been "worked over" by top White House aides.

"Yes," he said, "I have been subjected to tactics to get me in line. But they've given up long since as a hopeless case."

Percy said after the confrontation with Ehrlichman and Haldeman their "working relationship" improved and "they established a different relationship with me."

"They have never since tried through intimidation to get my vote," Percy said, giving as an example his fervid and last-ditch battles in the 92nd Congress for creation of a consumer protection agency, which the Administration opposed.

Percy said the White House handling of the Watergate case will be "improved greatly" with the departure of Ehrlichman, Haldeman, Kleindienst and John Dean.

"The President can restore his credibility with what he does in the next few days," Percy said.

Percy hopes for a quick resolution of the Watergate issue so that it will not drag on in a "long tedious" judicial proceeding.

LARRY HANOLD
Creditrithr Manager

Loan firm opens GC branch office

Creditrithr of America has opened a branch of its nationwide consumer loan and retail financing system in Granite City at 3727 Namecki Road. It was announced by Wendell L. Dixon, president.

The new branch is the 53rd Illinois office and is one of more than 500 offices in 29 states from coast to coast. There have been creditrithr offices in Illinois since 1937, according to Dixon.

Dixon said the firm has total resources in excess of half a billion dollars and employs nearly 3,000 persons.

Named to head the new office was Larry Hanold, an Indiana native who joined the firm in 1969 at the Collinsville branch. Later he moved to the Belleville office where he was promoted to assistant manager in 1971.

He has served in this capacity at the Collinsville office since June, 1972. Hanold studied for a year at Indiana State University and another year at the University of Evansville. He is a graduate of Creditrithr's Management Development Seminar held in October 1972 at the University of Evansville.

Hanold, who serves with the National Guard, was active in Boy Scout work at Collinsville, enjoys hunting and fishing and is a stamp collector. He and Mrs. Hanold have two children.

According to Hanold, the Granite City office will offer personal loans and do retail financing of durable consumer goods such as new and used

Dixon wants to shred, not burn state bonds

State Treasurer Alan J. Dixon is seeking legislative authority to destroy redeemed bonds and bond coupons by shredding, rather than by "cremation," as called for in present statutes.

Dixon says current procedure is for the redeemed bonds to be held the mandatory year after payment is made on them and then, "when we accumulate about a truck load," to be burned in the incinerator of one or another of the major Chicago banks.

The proposal by the state treasurer was introduced in the State Senate Tuesday by Sen. Sam Vadala of this district. If it is approved, "cremation" would no longer be necessary, and the burning which seems to violate new air pollution regulations would be replaced by shredding of the bonds and coupons.

The proposed change would not alter the requirement that destruction of such papers be witnessed by representatives of the governor, comptroller and state treasurer.

Expanded dental care is concern of SIUE dean

Dental care for a greater percentage of the population is a primary concern of Dr. Stanley P. Hazen, newly appointed dean of the School of Dental Medicine, Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Dr. Hazen's appointment was confirmed by the SIUE Board of Trustees, meeting at Carbondale. He will succeed Dr. Frank J. Subkowski, effective Sept. 1.

The new dean of the dental school points out that about 10% of the population accounts for approximately 75% of dental care.

"I think that a dental school has to be concerned about providing health care for populations that are less fortunate," Dr. Hazen said. "It we could reach the people with the methods we have for prevention, we could really bring tooth decay down to a minimal level."

Dr. Hazen believes one of the ways to reach larger numbers of people with dental care is to train more dental auxiliary workers. Referring directly to the problem of providing dental care for a larger percentage of the population in the East St. Louis area, he said, "I don't think we're going to reach East St. Louis by having a number of dentists moving in from the west."

I feel strongly that we have to train auxiliaries to help the dentists."

Dr. Hazen said he is impressed with the clinical facilities which are scheduled to open on the SIUE Alton campus this fall. He indicated the facilities will be helpful in extending dental care to larger numbers of people.

Asked how he feels about the innovative three-year curriculum of the SIUE dental school, Dr. Hazen said, "I think we're going to have to evaluate the results of the program. There certainly are advantages to the three-year curriculum in that it makes use of facilities over a longer period of time."

Dr. Hazen said he also is impressed with the attitude of the faculty at the dental school. "There seems to be a spirit of inventiveness, an esprit de corps that is somewhat outstanding for dental facilities, and I find this very refreshing."

The new dean said a primary objective will be "to continue building a dental school of excellence . . . and with the feeling I have from the faculty at SIUE, this can be accomplished."

Discussing dental diseases of primary concern to the nation today, Dr. Hazen said, "Without question, the number one adult problem is periodontal disease—disease of the supporting tissues of the teeth."

With a note of optimism, he added, "Dentistry has reached a phase in its maturity where we realize that preventing periodontal disease or most periodontal disease can be a reality with the working together of the patient and the dentist, and I think we have the methods and approaches today that can accomplish this end."

Dr. Hazen has been a professor and head of the Department of Periodontology at the University of Connecticut School of Dental Medicine since 1970. He also has taught at Temple University and the State University of New York at Buffalo, and was an associate in the Department of Periodontology at the Eastman Dental Center in Rochester, N. Y.

SIUE receives grant to research transportation

The United States Department of Transportation has granted $17,150 to Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville for a research program in cooperation with the University of Missouri at Columbia on transportation and land use problems in the Midwest and in particular, the greater St. Louis region of Missouri and Illinois.

Secretary of Transportation Claude S. Brinegar said the grant is one of 28 awards which have been made to increase involvement of universities in solving important transportation problems on every governmental level.

George R. Arnold, research associate for the Center for Urban and Environmental Research and Services at SIUE, has been named project director. He said the research program will point toward an urban transportation seminar which will be held in St. Louis in September.

"All concerned agencies and all segments of the population will be motivated to participate," Arnold said. "The seminar will be aimed at industries and state and local governments because we need concurrence for comprehensive planning, but the field of action will include professional societies, environmental groups, scholars, minority groups, strong-willed individuals — and even religious groups."

"A broad approach will be made to both short-range and long-range transportation developments," Arnold said. The project director said the purposes of the seminar would facilitate Midwest-wide comprehensive transportation planning, involve the public with transportation needs and trends, and consolidate transportation and land use planning for the St. Louis region.

Arnold, an associate professor of engineering, was chairman of the 1970 metropolitan St. Louis transportation conference and has completed transportation reports on special assignment for the State of Illinois. He is a member of the Great River Road Committee appointed by the governor.

The project co-director, Melvin A. Hanson, was director of the Transportation Institute of Southern Illinois University until he assumed the chairmanship of the Department of Finance in the Business Division.

Lack of ambulance service in much of state reviewed

By JOAN MURARO
Copy News Service
Springfield—It might be well to plan your next accident or sudden serious illness in Illinois carefully. In many places, it's still difficult if not impossible to get an ambulance to take you to the hospital.

John Nance, of the emergency medical services division in the State Department of Public Health, indicated the state presents a somewhat spotty picture where ambulance service is concerned, saying a program to increase the services is "doing well in some places, and still presenting a problem" in others.

Rock Island County, for instance, is presently paying three separate ambulance companies monthly subsidies of $1,000 each to provide ambulance service in the county.

Coles County, he said, is discontinuing contractual services and forming a municipally operated plan.

3 CARS DAMAGED

The cars of Mae Chasman, 1124 Douglas St., Venice, Adeline Drury, Cottage Hills, and Bobby Kirkover, 3 Violet Ave., Ponton Beach, were damaged in an accident at 13th Street and Madison Avenue in Madison during the weekend.

STEAL LAWN FURNITURE

Two lawn chairs and a bench were stolen from the front yard at the home of Francis Norton, 1817 Fourth St., Madison, he reported this week. A lock on a chain securing the furniture was broken.

PURSE, WALLET MISSING

Angela Hull, 2608 Cayuga St., reported this week that her purse containing a wallet, driver's license and a small amount of money was lost or stolen while she was enroute to a store on Saturday.

GUNS STOLEN FROM HOME

Terry White, 2906 Roosevelt St., reported during the weekend that a .410 gauge shotgun and a .22 caliber rifle were stolen in a burglary of his home. Entry was gained through a door which separates two apartments.

MOTORCYCLE STOLEN

Guy Helms, 2435 Benton St., reported this week that his motorcycle and some tools were stolen from his garage. The door was forced.

Adams County is setting up a plan to get state funds on a matching basis to provide service for the county and the City of Quincy.

In the Rock Island area in Hardin County, a total emergency medical services program is being implemented with delivery scheduled soon on the State Department of Public Health department, and arrangements being made for a radio system, communications program and other parts of the entire package.

In many rural areas, morticians continue to provide some ambulance service, though of only sketchy medical equipment and largely untrained personnel for ambulances. Others, anticipating eventual adoption of federal requirements for equipment, supplies and personnel training, are quietly going out of the ambulance business entirely, leaving an unfilled gap in service. Pending before the Illinois Legislature now is an action which would define emergency ambulance and invalid transportation service standards, require 54-inch headroom in the rear of vehicles used for these purposes, require such vehicles to carry minimum equipment as approved by the American College of Surgeons including oxygen, backboards and other specific items, and would require that ambulance personnel qualify as emergency medical technicians with specific minimum hours of training.

If the amendments are adopted, vehicle standards will become effective in 1977, and personnel would have to meet training requirements by 1975.

Most people in the field, Nance said, anticipate that the federal government will one day require that federal Emergency Medical Services standards be met to continue to quality for certain federal funding. Meanwhile morticians and some small ambulance service operators maintain they would be forced out of business if they must meet the proposed Illinois standards. In the Rock Island area, some operators have said they will continue to provide emergency services in various small communities but will not furnish service, or respond to police calls, for emergency ambulance service in the state is provided in the Vienna area, where a call for ambulance service is answered by an ambulance from the minimum security prison there, staffed by inmates accompanied by a guard. The inmates have, voluntarily, reached the 62-hour training standard and qualify as emergency medical technicians, Nance said.

STATION WAGON STOLEN

Jerry Sidwell, Cottage Hills, reported this week that his green 1963 station wagon was stolen from his home at 2260 block of Adams Street.

Job applicants employed on their merits -- Howlett

Camp directory available from state

The 1973 "Directory of Illinois Campgrounds" is now available to the public through the Illinois Department of Business and Economic Development, Division of Tourism.

The directory is a county breakdown of public and private campgrounds, with their merits and their potential usefulness," he said.

Howlett spoke at the annual "Meet the Press" luncheon of the John Howard Association last week.

The luncheon was at the Sheraton-Chicago Hotel in Chicago.

Howlett announced appointment of an advisory committee of four members to screen applications of offenders and help him administer his rehabilitation policy.

The advisory committee members are Julius Himmelman, president of the John Howard Association, and of the National Power Rodding Co.; Everett B. Harris, president of the Chicago Mercantile Exchange; Joseph Vadovsky, vice-president of the investment firm of William Blair & Co., and Charles A. Tatum, president of the Gateway National Bank.

"The office of Secretary of State prohibits no one from participating in open competitive examinations or from appointment to any job," said Howlett.

"However, we give every candidate an employment application which instructs him to indicate if he has been convicted for other than a minor traffic violation.

"If the answer is 'yes,' the candidate is instructed to attach a detailed explanation.

"The Secretary of State is given discretion in the appointment of a candidate who has been convicted of a felony.

"We have nearly 4,000 employees. Some of these positions are sensitive.

"For instance, we would want thorough investigation and careful consideration before appointing a convicted felon to a job which requires the incumbent to carry a pistol and assume the duties of a peace officer.

"To help me make such decisions, I am appointing the advisory committee."

Howlett said employers who hire ex-offenders have found them a good risk.

"The federal government has had a fidelity bonding program for five years which found the claim rate for ex-offenders is lower than for the general public," he said.

"If an offender can be rehabilitated, let's bring him out into society, have him work and make a contribution of his own to our country."

"As a matter of dollars and cents, it is more expensive to drive him back behind bars and have to support him there, support his family and absorb losses in wages and taxes."

Business to Take Lesson From Soviets

By RAY McILUGH
Chief, Washington Bureau
Copley News Service

Washington — The National Association of Manufacturers, that bastion of free enterprise, is arranging an unprecedented conference or "school" in Washington for American businessmen and Communist officials from the Soviet Union.

"Some of our members may object," acknowledges NAM President E. Douglas Kenna, "but Soviet-U.S. trade has become a fact of life. We're one of the last to recognize it and it's time we caught up."

"We aren't encouraging or discouraging such trade, but we want our members to understand the situation."

Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin will be one of the "teachers."

He will head the top-level delegation from Moscow that will make trade presentations to the conference on May 21. A day earlier the NAM group will hear the American side of the coin explained by an administration team headed by Peter Flanagan, President Nixon's assistant for international economic affairs, Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, also will participate.

Kenna says the conference will feature "how to do it" workshops on private business transactions between American companies and state-owned Soviet agencies. They will be aimed at top corporate managers, legal officers and marketing executives.

Workshop topics include financing, legislative and security responsibilities, government responsibilities, patents and licensing, natural resources development and barrier trade techniques.

Kenna says Soviet reluctance to enter hard currency transactions. Kenna said, many American firms will have to learn the intricacies of three and four-step transactions involving the sale or lease of manufactured goods, commodities and raw materials.

Vienna, which acts as a clearing house for such transactions with East European satellite states, may figure importantly in expanding U.S.-Soviet trade, he said.

The conference chairman will be Burt F. Raynes, chairman of the board of NAM, who also is chairman of Rohr Industries Inc. of Chula Vista, Calif., a major aerospace firm.

Kenna, a former American football player at West Point in Army's Blanchard-Davis glory years, is president of Robert B. Anderson & Co., Inc., an international financial firm.

NAM concerns this year focus sharply on international commerce.

A special task force headed by J. Stanford Smith, senior vice-president of General Electric Co., which has just signed a multimillion-dollar trade deal with Russia, had prepared a study on multinational corporations that are expected to be under heavy attack in a revenue-seeking Congress.

In a Washington interview, Kenna made it clear that the NAM will fight attempts to revive the Burke-Hartke tariff bill that would impose new duties on foreign imports, tax the earnings of foreign subsidiaries of U.S. companies in the year they are earned regardless of whether they are repatriated and repeat tax credits for foreign taxes paid.

The multinational corporations will figure heavily in U.S. attempts to penetrate the Soviet market. Competition with West German, Japanese, British, French and Italian firms is already keen.

Despite the frustrations of negotiating with Soviet traders and seemingly endless red tape, Kenna says, U.S. firms are greatly impressed by the long list of Western items in which Moscow has expressed interest.

"There is no question that it is an enormous market," he said. "Its orders could have significant impact on U.S. employment, production and profits. But it's difficult, tedious work. We're hoping to make it easier."

FISHING TROPHIES were presented by the Union of Sports Anglers Bass Club to Andy Leska, center, for the largest bass caught last year and for the most points won in competition last year. Awards also were presented to R. B. Mabry, left, past president of the club, and to Earl Harris, right, for their efforts in organizing the club which has no members from the Quad-Cities, Alton, Collinsville and St. Louis.

Gov. Dan Walker this week named three Latinos and a black bank executive to positions in state government.

They are Daniel Alvarez, assistant to the governor; Eduardo Mendez, member of the Illinois Housing Development Authority; and Solomon Sanchez, head of migrant labor inspection for the Department of Agriculture.

Walker also named Louis G. Alexander, vice-president of the Amalgamated Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago, as a member of the Illinois Health Facilities Authority.

Alvarez, executive director of Casa Central, a social service agency serving Chicago's Spanish-speaking community, will serve on Walker's staff as a liaison representative to several state agencies.

He will be paid $24,000 annually. Mendez, an attorney with the Cook County Legal Aid Society, will be a member of the board which distributes funds to be used for the construction of government financed housing.

He was previously appointed to the Parole and Pardon Board, but resigned the full-time traveling post because of family demands. The housing position is non-salaried and part-time.

Sanchez will serve in the newly created migrant labor position to insure that health and safety standards are observed for the benefit of the more than 100,000 migrant farm laborers working in Illinois. He will be paid $10,000 annually.

Alexander, a member of the board of the Chicago branch of the NAACP, will be a member of the board which distributes funds for hospital and nursing home construction. The position is unsalaried.

Funeral services were held today. Details are given in the obituary column.

In the association's menu idea exchange contest, the University Club restaurant won first place on the basis of general menu appearance, readability, imagination and originality.

The University Club also won third place in the special events menu category. This is the first year the National Association of College and University Food Services has held the contest.

Summer registration at SIUE underway

Registration for students without appointments for summer quarter at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will open a day earlier, according to Robert Bruker, director of admissions and records.

Originally, students wishing to register without appointments for summer quarter could only register on Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. But according to Bruker, students without appointments may now register today as well as Friday.

"We wanted to give these students an extra day to register for summer quarter so they have more time to go through the registration process," Bruker said.

In a meeting with the secretary, industry representatives urged him to take immediate action to limit iron and steel scrap exports to a total of seven million tons this year.

The industry spokesman pointed out that domestic scrap prices are soaring because of an unprecedented surge in the outflow of ferrous scrap from the United States.

During the first quarter of ports immediately would result in domestic scrap supplies plunging to disastrously low levels this year, causing a further serious impact on the domestic steel industry.

PUBLICATION NOTICE

The requisite affidavit for publication having been filed, notice is hereby given to you, UNKNOWN OWNERS and NON RECORD CLAIMANTS, Defendants, in an action now pending in the Circuit Court for the Third Judicial Circuit, Madison County, Illinois, by the said Plaintiff, GERMANIA FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION, a corporation, praying for foreclosure of the following described property, to-wit:

The South one-half (1/2) of Lots Numbered Three (3) and Four (4) in Block Number Thirty-seven (37) in the Town of Edwardsville, Madison County, Illinois, as shown by plat thereof recorded in Plat Book 7 Page 64 of the Records and Bolin Hunt County, Illinois; Situate in the City of Alton, County of Madison and State of Illinois.

Commonly known as 700 Alb Street, Alton, Illinois.

It gave the C. & W. Holding Co. headed by Daniel Calloway, Sr. the green light to proceed with development of the private country club which supporters said would cost $2.3 million, provide 542,000 annual payroll, taxes on the property an improvement to the area.

The petition for the permit for the club, to be for blacks with membership opened to whites, became a matter of controversy on the County Board as opponents pointed out that developers have been unable to obtain ground for a golf course or an easement to carry sewage effluent to the Chicago Canal.

Plans for the golf course have been dropped, but the club is to feature a dining room and cocktail lounge, swimming pool, tennis courts and other attractions.

Mrs. Sybil Bellis pointed out that an easement over private property to the canal is unnecessary as a line could be routed along Bend Road to the highway and then Route 9, which is public right-of-way.

Objections were voiced by Carl Buehler of Granite City, a Louis Williams of Nanticoke Township, who noted that residents in the area were against the development and had petitioned against it.

It was supported by William Webb of Granite City who said it would improve the area.

Now, THEREFORE, unless you, CHRISTINE WALLACE, MARTHA JORDAN, IDA NISCHWITZ, THELMA CASEY, CARL HESSEL, LAVERNE VESSEART, PAUL VESSEART, MARLIN VESSEART, JOHN HESSEL, JOHN HESSEL, EMIL HESSEL, JR., EITH RINGER, MARY THOMAS and JACKIE HARRISON, and each of you, Defendants, in the above-entitled cause, that a Petition for Leave to Sell Real Estate has been commenced in the Circuit Court for the Third Judicial Circuit, Madison County, Illinois, against you and each of you, praying for leave to sell the decedent's interest in real estate and for other relief.

NOW, THEREFORE, unless you, CHRISTINE WALLACE, MARTHA JORDAN, IDA NISCHWITZ, THELMA CASEY, CARL HESSEL, LAVERNE VESSEART, PAUL VESSEART, MARLIN VESSEART, JOHN HESSEL, JOHN HESSEL, EMIL HESSEL, JR., EITH RINGER, MARY THOMAS and JACKIE HARRISON, and each of you, Defendants, file your answer therein in the said Circuit Court for the Third Judicial Circuit, Madison County, Illinois, on or before the 14th day of May, 1973, default may be entered against you at any time after that day and a Decree entered in accordance with the prayer of said Complaint.

Special education center plans open house sunday

The Special Education (Title VI) Diagnostic Center will hold an open house at its Cahokia Center, 826 Jerome Lane, Cahokia from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. Sunday.

This project, funded under a Title VI federal grant, has served Jersey, Madison, Monroe, Randolph and St. Clair Counties since November, 1968. It provides psychoeducational evaluations for handicapped children. Emphasis has been placed on locating, evaluating, and planning educational programs for preschool age children who need special education services.

The project augments local resources by providing a second order of diagnostic services to school age children where needed.

A second center is located on Poag Road, Edwardsville. The staff includes a director, pathologist, audiologist, diagnostic teacher, occupational therapist, psychologist, social worker, and secretaries. Most of the staff is employed on a part-time basis.

Harmony-Emge School District 175 of Belleville is the administrative district. Approval and funding come from the office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction Michael J. Bakalis.

Donations to River Festival ahead of last year's pace

Advance sales of tickets for the Mississippi River Festival, to be held July 14 through August 29 at SIU-Edwardsville, are well ahead of last year's advance sales for a comparable period, Mrs. Robert L. Hartzog Jr., general chairman of ticket sales, has told the Festival's Board of Directors.

Coupon books totaling $40,680 have been sold in the first four weeks of sales this season, compared with $19,880, during the first four weeks of last season—an increase of 61%.

Coupon books contain $25 worth of coupons which may be exchanged for tickets to any MRF performance, and sell for $20.00 until July 15.

Friends of the Mississippi River Festival also have received more donations this season, compared to a comparable period last year, Mrs. Robert H. Orchard, chairman of the Friends organization reported. Donations to date total $18,726, for the same period in 1972, donations were $16,906.

Two new additions to the board of directors were approved: Mrs. Richard B. Kallaus, 3 St. Andrews Drive, and Gen. Leif J. Sverdrup, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Sverdrup & Parcel Associates, Inc.

The board approved contracts between the St. Louis Symphony Society and MRF and between SIUE and the Festival.

Under terms of the Symphony's contract, the Festival will pay $214,200 for the services of the orchestra, its music director, Walter Susskind and the stage manager and stagehands, administrative staff, music, drayage, and other items.

The Symphony Society pledges to contribute $40,000 to the Festival during the 1973 season.

Under the university's contract with the Festival corporation, the university will receive $40,000 for which it will provide facilities on the SIUE campus for rehearsals, maintain the Festival tent site, furnish audio directors, tentmaster, concert managers, ushers and other necessary personnel related to administrative functions.

The Festival's managing director, Peter Pastreich, reported to the board that funds for the Festival have not yet been appropriated by the Missouri State Council on the Arts and the Illinois Arts Council. In 1972, the Missouri State Council on the Arts allocated $38,000 and the Festival is requesting $78,000 this season. The Illinois Arts Council has been asked to contribute $12,600; last season, the council allocated $50,000.

A fifth anniversary birthday party is being planned for the opening night of the Festival July 4, it was announced by Miss Barbara Mahon, chairman of the event.

The party will provide entertainment for families and will precede the Symphony Orchestra concert which will feature 13-year-old violinist Lilit Gampel. Details of the event will be announced later.

Methodist youths to sponsor paper drive

The youth of the United Methodist Church of Madison will collect old newspapers in the parking lot in back of the church from 1 p.m. until 3 p.m. Saturday. The church is located at the corner of Fifth Street and Ewing Avenue.

This project is an effort by the youth of the church to help preserve the natural resources. The newspapers will be trucked to a paper company in the area for recycling.

People bringing newspapers to the church are asked to tie them in bundles, place them in grocery bags, or stack them in cardboard boxes. People living in Madison may have their papers picked up by calling 876-3555.

Name board to finance anti-pollution devices for firms

Gov. Dan Walker last week announced appointment of three members to the Illinois Industrial Pollution Control Financing Authority. They are: David Lincoln Ader, 30, a partner in the Ader and Ader law firm, Chicago, who has served as a hearing officer for the Illinois Pollution Control Board and is experienced in environmental law.

Norman Mathew Gelfand, 34, an associate professor of physics at the Enrico Fermi Institute of the University of Chicago.

And Mrs. Carol R. Fordonski, 33, a development engineer employed by Western Electric in Cicero.

The authority came into being in August 1973 with passage of the Illinois Industrial Pollution Control Act. Gov. Walker appointed two Democrats and one Republican. According to state law, all three members may not be of the same party.

The appointments expire one each year beginning this June 30. The positions are not salaried.

A chairman will be elected from the three appointees. The authority will authorize issuance of bonds under the $250 million Illinois Industrial Pollution Control Act, which set aside $75 million for small businesses.

The bonds are intended to provide and alternative means of financing for companies that must buy pollution control equipment in order to bring their operation into compliance with the pollution control act.

The bonds will allow the state to buy pollution control equipment that companies then will lease from the state. When a company has fulfilled its lease, it will become owner of the equipment.

The authority will help small businesses that are not able to raise capital by means of bond issues. The state bonds will allow a company to pay back borrowed money at a low interest rate, it was explained.

Dolores Reid new deputy for family services

Dolores B. Reid has been named deputy director for program services of the state Department of Children and Family Services, Director Jerome G. Miller announced.

Mrs. Reid will assume the post June 16. Her duties include administration of all department social services programs for children and their families, including operation of the department's 43 field offices and 10 institutions.

The appointment is part of a reorganization of the department's headquarters office in Springfield.

"Mrs. Reid will play a key role in reshaping the department to provide preventive in-home services that eliminate the need to place children outside their own homes," Miller said.

"She will be a leader in our efforts to develop additional community-based resources for children and families."

Mrs. Reid comes to her new post from the Rock Island Neighborhood Health Center, which she has served as assistant director and director of social services since August 1971. The center provides comprehensive, family-centered health services in Model Cities neighborhoods.

Mrs. Reid was employed by the Department of Children and Family Services from February 1967 to June 1971 as training coordinator and then deputy director of the Champaign region.

She was assistant professor at the University of Hawaii's School of Social Work from 1964-1966. Duties included supervising field work students at a state mental hospital.

She also has been a social worker in public and private agencies in Massachusetts, Minnesota and New Hampshire, including the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children.

A graduate of Loyola University of Chicago with a major in sociology, Mrs. Reid received her master of social work in 1961.

She and her husband, Walter, who is retired from the Air Force, have two children. They will live in Springfield.

State comptroller shows 1974 'watchdog' budget

Comptroller George W. Lindberg has unveiled a 1974 fiscal year budget that will yield watchdog services on state spending on a centralized basis for the first time in Illinois history.

"It was for this reason the drafters of the 1970 Constitution created the office of comptroller—to give a comprehensive insight into the way our tax money is sometimes spent," Lindberg said.

Programs being launched by Lindberg will, during the next year, provide:

Protection against fraud in spending through a system of verification of each planned expenditure.

Faster bill payments to the state's private businessmen to enable even small merchants to bid on state work by eliminating the need for them to carry the state's unpaid accounts on their shoulders.

Current information on the state's financial condition.

Analysis of contracting practices.

Take-over of monthly payroll for 41,000 university personnel.

Issuance of 2.8 million income tax refund checks yearly.

One central location for state financial records.

"Taxpayers will for the first time have a statewide uniform accounting system that will track every expenditure throughout all of state government," Lindberg said.

The comptroller's fiscal blueprint is in two parts.

One portion involves new activity, including the new uniform accounting system, totaling $3.9 million.

The other segment outlines the cost of performing the continuing duties of the old office of auditor of public accounts, which was abolished in January.

In fiscal year 1973, the auditor's costs were $3,480,900. Lindberg's fiscal year 1974 blueprint for the same work totals $3,700,000. The comptroller said the $219,100 difference includes a 1974 cost of living increase of five per cent for the 210 employees doing the old auditor's operations, normal salary step increases and first steps to modernize existing operations.

Plans to renovate 5 SIUE buildings OK'd

Plans and specifications for renovation of five buildings on the Alton campus of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville have been approved by the SIUE Board of Trustees. The buildings will be used by the School of Dental Medicine.

Renovation expenses will be covered by a $240,000 "start-up" assistance grant from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Dr. John S. Rendleman, SIUE president, was authorized to receive and award bids provided the cost does not exceed $340,000. If costs exceed the $240,000 grant by no more than 10%, the board itself must concur on the source and amount of supplemental funds.

Under terms of the "start-up" grant, the funds must be obligated by June 30, 1973. The renovation projects, first approved by the trustees in February, will provide space for a biomedical library, a medical services laboratory, research space for applied science, two large lecture rooms and additional office space for faculty and other personnel.

Bailey succeeds Gerald J. T. Runkle as dean of the Humanities Division. Runkle asked to return to full-time teaching as a professor of philosophical studies, effective Sept. 16.

Bailey joined the SIUE staff as a lecturer in English language and literature in 1965. He is now an associate professor of English, but will be promoted to professor at the moted to professor at the time he becomes dean. The new dean earned a bachelor of arts degree in English at Brigham Young University, a master of arts degree at Columbia University and a doctoral degree at Indiana University. Delores Bean accepted at Lipscomb College

Miss Delores Ann Bean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Othel Bean, Route Two, Box 1170, Granite City, has been accepted for admission at David Lipscomb College, Nashville, Tenn. Now a senior in Granite City High School, Miss Bean plans to major in accounting and will study Bible every day—a required subject for all students, freshman through senior years.

McKendree sees more enrollment

Every indication is that McKendree College will enjoy a major increase in new student enrollments this fall, according to Raymond Devery, vice-president for development and college relations.

One hundred 30 students already have been admitted for the fall term, 118 of them freshmen, Devery said, for an increase of 46.2% over this time last year. The number of students who already have made tuition deposits is up 30.9% from the same date last year.

Nationally the trend among all colleges, and especially among private colleges, is to decreasing enrollments.

"We never have reached our optimum enrollment," Devery explained. "We could reach maximum efficiency at about the 700 student level." Devery said McKendree has small classes and the individual relationships between student and teacher that are the hall mark of quality McKendree education.

"People are learning that McKendree means quality," Devery said. "In a sense, after 145 years we are only now being discovered, and it is showing up in the increased interest of students in coming to McKendree."

Devery noted that the increase primarily is in freshmen and predicted that this will change. "Our school is innovative," he said, "and we have several new programs that will be especially appealing to those who complete two years of junior college. Degree programs in medical technology, secretarial specialization and law enforcement will enable junior college graduates to convert their vocational training into degree programs," Devery said.

Details on the medical technology programs probably will be announced next week, Devery said.

"These new programs complement our modern approach to quality education," Devery said. This includes independent studies, individualized majors, individual attention to the students and concern with his total development, small classes and good counseling, Devery said.

McKendree's 4-14 calendar adopted two years ago to provide interim January terms for innovative learning experiences on campus and away is being adopted by more and more progressive schools each year, Devery said.

Mark and Susan solve china issue

By NANCY ANDERSON
Copley News Service

Mark Spitz and his bride-elect, Susan Weiner, chose their china pattern at Geary's in Beverly Hills, selecting Royal Doulton's "Carlyle." By coincidence, at the very time they made their selection, Richard J. Bailey, president of Royal Doulton, was in Beverly Hills from owners, the Fred Meyers. He didn't influence Mark's and Susan's choice, but he was certainly pleased by it. Nothing could have made him feel more welcome.

Bill Orr's new movie for MGM, "Wicked, Wicked," features a novel projection process called Duo-Vision, which is a split screen track. Sounds confusing, doesn't it?

And the double picture is confusing at first, but pretty soon your perception adjusts to the technique which enhances the action.

Orr premiered his movie in San Diego where it was shot for a press group transported by chartered bus and housed at Hotel del Coronado, the marvelous, romantic hotel at which Wally Simpson met the then-Prince of Wales.

The film is a suspense drama and introduces in a key role, a young Vietnamese veteran, Randolph Roberts, who had worked as a professional actor for only one day in his entire life (that in a "Banana" segment) before "Wicked, Wicked."

As a student at the San Diego School of Performing Arts, Randy'd acquired an agent who'd sent him around to read for a lesser part in the murder-thriller, a role which eventually went to Edd Byrnes.

But, when Orr and co-producer-director Richard L. Bare heard him, they made him one of their leads.

Another principal character in the film is played by David Bailey, the virile guy who tells TV viewers that he hasn't used his beard for days. He may not have made as much money from "Wicked, Wicked" as he did from those commercials, but in his case the Duo-Vision flick role was a step up.

During the San Diego weekend, I got to renew my friendship with Diane McBain and to meet her husband Rod Burke.

I knew Diane, another member of the "Wicked, Wicked" cast, several years ago when she was starring in "Surfside Six."

Pregnant now, she expects a baby in June which two doctors out of three have told her to be a girl. As a result, she and Rod have only picked out girls names, Heather and Michele, so if the baby's a boy, he'll take a ribbing at school.

When I asked Diane whether her husband is an actor, she said, "No, and I'm happy about that. We met at a Budget meeting. We're both practicing Buddhists."

"We think we are very lucky to have found each other."

During the frightening film, Edd Byrnes reassured me by slipping into the seat beside me and whispering, "If I get too scary, you can hold my hand."

It got so scary I started to sit in his lap.

Lynda Thompson, Elvis' Memphis import, is now Priscilla's near-neighbor. She's taken an apartment in the complex in which Mrs. Presley is a tenant.

From the mail bag:

Someone named John Ching, styling himself an "Oriental movie fan," writes that he polled a group of other Oriental movie fans to determine their favorite performers with the following results which I quote exactly —

"Most Favorite" (Male) Gary Cooper, Errol Flynn, Sean Connery, Charles Chaplin, Lee Remick.

(Female) Jennifer Jones, Doris Day, Lana Turner, Shirley Temple, Audrey Hepburn.

"Most Handsome" (1) Lex Barker, (2) Tyrone Power, (3) Robert Taylor, (4) Alain Delon, (5) Steve Reeves.

"Most Beautiful" (1) Elizabeth Taylor, (2) Elizabeth Taylor, (3) Lana Turner, (4) Ava Gardner, (5) Arlene Dahl.

I woke up at 3 a.m. and the sun was streaming through my eyes. I blinked and looked at my watch again. It had stopped.

I leaped out of bed and shouted, "All hands on deck! It may be noon!"

Very few people in this household, the student-types at least, EVER wake up by themselves. If they are not called, I imagine they would sleep right through to Saturday morning.

(Saturday morning they would be up though. No school on Saturdays.)

I quickly dialed time. "At the time the time will be six, two, exactly."

Groom, I could have slept another 28 minutes.

The children came moaning down the hall. "It's only six o'clock and now we can't go back to sleep."

I said, "I'm sorry, I'll draw my wages today and you can hire a new butler. In the meantime, how about putting on some water for coffee."

Don't mess with the paper dragon until he's had his coffee.

A few more days left in National Panic Week. (We celebrate all year long around here.) I mentioned here that this was the week to start panicking. Only I left the k out. It came out "panicking."

Several readers panicked. "I believe that someone in your position should use proper spelling and grammar, etc., etc., etc."

That was the general tone of most of the letters.

I wrote back, "Thank you for getting right into the spirit of National Panic Week."

I know a country newspaper editor who ran a little boxed insert on his front page every day. It read:

"There are 60,000 chances for an error on each page of newspaper. As we try to provide something for every reader, we have sprinkled a few of these on each page. Mistakes are all some people ever look for."

CLASSICAL MUSIC

Lightweight music at budget price

SAINT-SAENS: The Five Piano Concertos. Aldo Ciccolini, piano; Orchestre de Paris, Serge Gauthier, cond. Septet in E-flat Major, Paris Instrumental Group. Etude en Forme de Valse, Op. 55, Aldo Ciccolini, piano. Seraphim Sisk 6081 (three discs).

By KING DURKEE
Copley News Service

Is it worthwhile listening to second-rate music? This album proves that it certainly is.

For one thing, there is nothing second-rate about the performances or the engineering. One simply must understand that, with the possible exception of the second and fourth concertos, these works for piano and orchestra are uncomplicated, lightweight music. A cut above what some critics have termed "intelligent trash" when referring to a certain segment of French art, but obviously not substantial enough (again, with the possible exception of the second and the fourth) to hold their own in the standard piano concerto repertoire. (Although number one proves to be a youthful charmer.)

To their credit and to the listeners' pleasure, Ciccolini, Baudouin, et al. get everything that it is possible to get out of the composer's works.

The budget price is the saving grace here. For what one previously had paid for the second and fourth concertos, he now can have all five plus the septet, plus a sparkling performance of the familiar Etude en Forme de Valse. And that makes this set a bargain.

WORLD OF MUSIC

Withers mixes pop and soul

By JUDY HUGG
Copley News Service

To perform at Carnegie Hall is perhaps one of the ultimate goals for most recording artists, and Bill Withers is no exception.

"We had been up all night the night before rehearsing together, even arguing with each other — each of us with one thing in mind, to do our best," he recalled.

For Withers the concert was a dream come true and the pressure was doubled, since the session was to be taped by Sussex records as a "live" two-record set. Although "live" LPs are a dime-a-dozen these days, "Bill Withers Live At Carnegie Hall" is one of the very few to really manage to capture the true excitement flowing through the hall on that cold rainy night.

"Excitement man, I've never been so excited in all my life," he said. "You could just feel the concentration. Ray Jackson, was quiet and serious at the piano, Bernard Blackman, serene and very close to his guitar, James Gadsden was chewing gum like only James can chew. Melvin Dunlap, who never talks, even quieter than usual, and Bobbye Hall, who was nice enough to join us for this concert was being very cool and professional."

"Affection! By the time we got into 'Harlem,' us and the audience had become all happy members of one big band all on one stage," he continued. "In about an hour and a half that audience transformed us from all nervous, serious musicians into free and happy people. I know I'll never forget it."

The marriage between Bill and the audience can truly be felt on the extended version of "Harlem" which runs for some 13 minutes. The two-record set contains the very best of Bill's compositions with a well balanced mixture of soul and soul.

Million selling cuts like "Use Me," "Lean On Me," and "Ain't No Sunshine" are sprinkled throughout his new material which includes "Friend of Mine," "Let Us Love," "Hope She'll Be Happy."

plier" and "Grandma's Hands," just to mention a few.

A superb album by a warm and gifted young man, which you'll never forget.

Five guys who call themselves the Spinners have cut an LP that is bound to ride high on all the soul charts. The album entitled simply "Spinners" on the Atlantic label, contains their two million sellers "I'll Be Around" and "Couldn't It Be I'm Falling In Love."

Produced by Thom Bell, mister soul himself, the Spinners weave solos and harmonies throughout the cuts in a unique and very distinctive style that sets them in a class by themselves. Comprised of tenors Billy Henderson, Bobby Smith and Phillip Wynne, and Henry Fambrough, baritone and Pervis Jackson, bass, the group puts together ten classic cuts bound to suit everyone. "One of a Kind (Love Affair)," "Just Can't Get You Out of My Mind" and "Ghetto Child" are among the top cuts from this excellent soul group.

There is good news for jazz fans in a couple of releases by Verve. Both feature the great Duke Ellington — his compositions and his piano artistry. The Duke teams up with tenor sax genius Johnny Hodges in the Verve LP called "Blues Summit." Hodges died in 1970 after playing with the Ellington band for 40 years, and these selections were recorded in New York in 1958. Ellington-Hodges rock along through such classics as "Basin Street Blues," "Basin Street Blues," and "St. Louis Blues." Super jazz by two of the best. The other LP, "A Tribute to Duke Ellington," puts the spotlight on such Ellington compositions as "Sophisticated Lady," "Perdido," "Caravan," "Mood Indigo," "Cotton Tail" and "Satin Doll." The performers are all the best in jazz: Ella Fitzgerald, Count Basie, Oscar Peterson, Coleman Hawkins, Gene Krupa, Billie Holiday (a voice that never grows dated), Louis Armstrong and Dizzy Gillespie. Both of the LPs are two-record sets, an increasingly popular distribution format.

The festival will include a five-ring circus, carnival rides, booths, a frog-jumping contest, a special dinner and theater production, a tricycle race, open house on campus and many cultural events.

The festival is sponsored annually by the major events committee at SIUE, and this year's festival coordinator is Cindy Woolbright, a student from Edwardsville.

The fun begins at 2 p.m. Sunday with Tower Lake recreation day. Activities will include swimming, volleyball, badminton, a leggirling contest and a frisbee contest.

On Monday Omega Psi Phi will sponsor a dance marathon beginning at noon on the bookstore patio of the University Center. Rock bands will provide the music and prizes will be awarded to couples who dance the longest.

On Tuesday the choral composition, "Carmina Burana," will be performed at 8:15 p.m. in the Meridian Ballroom of the University Center under the direction of Leonard Van Camp, associate professor in the SIUE music dept. The chorus will include 200 voices, combining the Community Choral Society and the Concert Chorus. Admission is free.

Wednesday will be the festival day devoted to jazz music. Jazz groups and individuals will be performing on the Communications Building patio and in the Goshen Lounge of the University Center from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. From 2:30 to 4 p.m., there will be a jam session in the Governor's Lounge. Anyone who brings an instrument may participate.

Prather Smarteens in drug abuse campaign

The Prather Junior High School Smarteens are continuing their fight to curb drug abuse. They marched in the recent Pat Parade carrying anti-drug slogans and posters. Several of the marchers were wearing their new SOS T-shirts.

Smarteens have been active in other areas. They helped the St. Elizabeth drug education committee by distributing free drug information for the customers of 18 local merchants.

Smarteens were a driving force in the March of Dimes Walkathon in which Prather collected more than $400.

The Prather Smarteens have purchased a 24 sheet anti-drug billboard which the Eller Outdoor Advertising Company has agreed to put up in the Granite City area.

The Prather club has been featured three times in the national Smarteens paper "Scene" which is widely distributed across the U. S. and the world.

A sponsor's tape which features Art Linkletter and Robert Squire explaining the Smarteens program is available to service clubs and interested individuals and may be obtained by contacting John Haug at Prather.

Teas and coffees have versatile food

By SUSAN DELIGHT
Copley News Service

Teas and coffees are an easy and versatile way of extending hospitality. These parties can be small and intimate, or large and formal. Either can be a simple expression of hospitality for neighborhood friends, or an elaborate party honoring some well-known personage.

Tea food can range from cinnamon toast to elaborate cakes. Coffee fare also is versatile, allowing the hostess much leeway. Chocolate Apple Rollies, which require no cooking, and Apricot Chiffon Cake can add sweet interest to any tea or coffee table.

CHOCOLATE APPLE ROLLIES

- 1 pkg. (12-ounces) semi-sweet chocolate chips
- 1 cup canned apple sauce
- 1 teaspoon almond extract
- 5 cups confectioners sugar
- Two-thirds cup drained, chopped maraschino cherries
- 1 cup chopped walnuts
- 1 can (3 1/2-ounces) angel flake coconut

Combine chocolate chips, apple sauce and almond extract in a heavy aluminum sauce pan and stir over low heat until chocolate is melted and blended with apple sauce. Stir in sugar, maraschino cherries and walnuts and chill about 1 hour or until firm. Shape into 1 1/2-inch balls and roll in coconut. Makes about five dozen.

APRICOT CHIFFON CAKE

(Makes 10 to 12 servings)

- 1 can (30 oz.) apricot halves
- 2 1/4 cups cake flour
- 1/4 cups sugar
- 1 tablespoon baking powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup salad oil
- 5 egg yolks
- 2 lemons grated lemon peel
- 1/2 cup egg whites, 7 to 8
- 1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar
- Lemon whipped cream (Note)
- 1/2 cup toasted sliced almonds

Drain apricots, reserving two-thirds cup of the syrup for liquid in the cake. Puree apricots in electric blender or food mill. Measure 1 cup puree for cake; chill remaining puree for garnish.

Sift flour, sugar, baking powder and salt into large mixing bowl; "make a well" in center. Add oil, egg yolks, two-thirds cup apricot syrup, 1 cup apricot puree and lemon peel. Beat mixture thoroughly until smooth.

Beat egg whites with cream of tartar until stiff peaks form. (Do not underbeat.) Gently fold egg-yolk mixture into beaten whites using a whisk or rubber spatula. Pour into an ungreased 10-inch tube pan; bake in 325 degree oven 35 minutes. Increase oven temperature to 350 degrees; bake 10 minutes longer or until cake tests done. Invert pan over neck of bottle; allow cake to hang until cool. With spatula, carefully loosen cake from pan; remove. Cool on wire rack with narrow part of cake on bottom. Brush excess crumbs from cake.

At serving time, frost cake with Lemon Whipped Cream (Note). Stud sides of cake with almonds; drizzle reserved two-thirds cup apricot puree over top of cake.

(Note) Lemon Whipped Cream: Whip 1 cup (1/2 pint) heavy cream with two tablespoons sugar and 1/2 teaspoon lemon peel until soft peaks form.

Blouses brighten summer

By BETH MOHR
Copley News Service

Fashion's best summer coolers, next to bare midriffs, are free and easy little blouses flying away in straight lines and skimpy knit tops shortened to waist length.

The cropped box blouses are made with little girl prettiness. They are in light cotton prints, gingham and stripes. Many have contrasting yokes or borders and eyelet and lace are among favorite trims. Square and scoop necklines add to their air of summer freshness.

A bit more sophisticated, the knits tend to bare the shoulders and mold figures in clinging fit. They are halters, camisole designs with side straps and strapless tubes held up by the cling of the knit.

Young in mood, the minitops are worn with flared pants ending in cuffs or hems, long skirts and palazzo pajamas. They are unconcerned about any midriff exposure in bending or stretching.

SHOPPING

By JOYCE ROARK
Copley News Service

Shopping for towels can be a real headache. The stores carry so many different brands and styles that deciding which is the best buy can be difficult if not impossible.

Comparing price and quality is important in determining what is a good buy.

First compare the quality. The loops can be on one or both sides of the fabric. The more loops there are, the more absorbent the towel. A towel with loops on both sides will be more absorbent than one with loops on only one side.

The background fabric should be woven so tightly that you can't see through it. The tighter the weave in the background fabric, the more loops and the more absorbency. If the background weave is loose, it can snag easily.

The loops should be one-eighth-inch long. Shorter loops won't absorb much moisture. Longer than one-eighth-inch, the loops may snag and pull out. Snagging is a problem with towels but large loops increase the problem.

Buying towels poses problems

The loops should be twisted slightly. This helps the absorbency.

The best towels will have a selvedge on two sides rather than a selvedge on one side and a hem on the other.

The hem should be on the straight of grain and turned under one-quarter-inch for the seam allowance. There should be eight to 10 stitches per inch in the hem seam. The ends should be back stitched.

If there is fringe, it should be at least one-inch long.

Borders may shrink in a clothes dryer. (Cannon guarantees the borders on their products not to shrink.) The lack of loops in the border cuts down the absorbency. Towels with heavy cording as a border have a very bad problem of shrinking.

Avoid towels with elaborate borders.

Designs that are added to the towel after it's been woven will lower the absorbency. If the dye is added before the towel is woven, there will be no effect in the drying power.

Cut piles (velvet look) are less absorbent than a towel with loops on both sides. (Velvet pile towels are more expensive too.)

Metallic yarns are scratchy and expensive. Avoid them! Embroidery shrinks badly, decreases absorbency, and is expensive.

The sizes of towels vary. These are the standards. If a towel doesn't fit into these sizes, take a second look! Something is wrong.

Bath towel 20" x 40" to 27" x 50"

Hand towel 15" x 25" to 18" x 26"

Guest towel (finger tip towel) 11" x 18"

Wash cloth 12" x 12" to 13" x 13"

Extra large (beach towel) 35" x 66" to 36" x 72"

Towels of poor quality due to poor construction should not be considered for purchase. They won't last more than a few washings. Replacement costs make them expensive.

Towels of good quality should be compared in price. The lowest price is probably the best buy.

Christ Pashoff honored at surprise party

Christ N. Pashoff, who recently retired as manager of the Washington Theatre, was honored at a surprise party given during the weekend at Holy Trinity Hall in Madison.

As Mr. Pashoff and his wife, Mary, arrived they were greeted by Robert Gibson of Chicago, Illinois State secretary-treasurer of the AFL-CIO who served as master of ceremonies. Mr. Gibson escorted the guests of honor to the main table as Maxine Cosoff sang, "A Good Man Is Hard to Find."

John Papa introduced those who were seated at the main table, including Mrs. Nick Pashoff, mother of the retiree; daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Pashoff, Christine Pashoff and Deanna Spudich; her husband, John Spudich, Tom Miskew, the Rev. Peter Stambold-jew and his wife, Father Jack Quilligan, Mrs. Robert Gibson, Mrs. Al Poos and Henry D. Karandjoff.

Mr. Pashoff retired as manager of the Washington theatre following his election as supervisor of Venice Township, April 3.

The entertainment began as former employees, Dorothy Antonopoulos, Eleanor Beck, Betty Patterson, Rose Marie Chadwick, and Louise Papa sang a tribute to Mr. Pashoff entitled "Welcome to the Washington."

The program depicted events including Christ as a floor walker for Harry C. Swan in 1940-42, manager of the Rialto Theatre 1942-46, the fire at the old Washington, and Miss Quadt-Cities Dorothy Gibbs Antonopoulos.

The fabulous fifties began with Christine Antonopoulos, Edward Astorian, and Bill Patterson modeling new modern uniforms, the great theatre robbery of 1969 in which Pashoff and Jim Kosoff were robbed of the day's receipts except for the cash donations to the Red Cross, and the honoree serving as the manager of the City Theatre.

In 1965, special Saturday matinees began and a few months ago, the honoree gave away his 500th guitar. Three-year old Christopher Papa came in and presented the retiree with the 501st guitar.

Betty Patterson and daughter Mary sang "The Generation Gap." A scrapbook was presented to Mr. Pashoff by his daughter Mrs. Deanna Spudich with pictures and stories during his theatre career. Other special guests who were representing all happenings introduced during the festive ties were the Quad-City mayors and their wives, Mayor and Mrs. Mike Sasyk of Madison, Dr. and Mrs. John E. Lee of Venice, and Mayor and Mrs. Paul Schuler of Granite City.

Dr. Lee gave a short speech on behalf of Mr. Pashoff after the introductions.

Mr. Papa presented Mr. Pashoff with several items that he had kept in his office at the theatre during the years and had refused to part with. They included two old lamp shades, a 12 foot shovel, a 3 x 4 foot picture of himself in front of the old Rialto Theatre and a gold golf putter, a gift from all the guests present.

The surprise item was the unveiling of a lifetime poster of Natalie Wood who played the part of Gypsy Rose Lee, that was also an office memento.

Following the program, a champagne buffet was served and dancing concluded the evening.

Those who served on the planning committee were Mr. and Mrs. John Papa, Rose Marie Chadwick, Patricia Scherrills, Dorothy Antonopoulos, Eleanor Beck, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Patterson, Christine Pashoff and Mrs. Deanna Spudich.

Orff's cantata Carmina Burana open to public at SIUE Tuesday

The music department at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will present Carl Orff's cantata Carmina Burana at 8:15 p.m. Tuesday in Meridian Hall of the University Center. The public is invited, admission free.

Groups participating will include the SIUE Percussion Ensemble, the Community Choral Society, the University Chorus, the Concert Chorus, the Ragazzi Chorus and the SIUE Dance Theatre.

Leonard Van Camp, director of choral activities at SIUE, will conduct the cantata. Van Camp is director of the choral society and the chorale. William Claudon directs the University Chorus and Aline Wilz the dance theatre. Arlene Schmelzel directs the Ragazzi Chorus.

Vocal soloists for Carmina Burana will be Sarah Travers Turner, soprano; Dale Moore, baritone; and Thomas C. Collins, tenor. Mrs. Turner and Moore are members of the voice faculty at SIUE. Collins, from St. Louis, is an SIUE student.

The Carmina Burana (Songs of Beuron) are poems written by wandering scholars and vagrant monks in the late thirteenth century. They were collected by one of the Benedictine monks in the Monastery of Beuron.

According to Van Camp, Carl Orff's approach to composition was to simplify drastically and completely. "The main element

"The choreography created by Wilz is based on careful study of the poems in an attempt to create in movement the mood and atmosphere at which Orff aimed in this popular dramatic cantata," Van Camp explained.

They are The Fisher Garden Center Medal awarded to the Garden Center, maintained by one or more federated garden clubs that have performed the greatest service to the community, and The Dean World Gardening Trophy given to a member club for the most outstanding program of activity in lawn gardening.

Mrs. Glenn will work with seven districts in Illinois.

Two ornamental flowering pear trees recently were planted at Wilson Park as the clubs continuing effort for beautification of the recreation center.

Mailbox Improvement Week opens Monday

The condition and position of mailboxes in both rural and urban areas will be inspected during "Mailbox Improvement Week" which will start Monday and continue through May 26, it was announced this week by Quad-City area postmasters W. T. Overbeck of Granite City, William Clinton of Madison and Charles Simmons of Venice.

"The Postal Service designates a week during May each year when customers on rural, city motorized and contract delivery routes are encouraged to examine and improve, where necessary, the appearance of their mailboxes," Overbeck said.

"The purpose of Mailbox Improvement Week is to call attention to the need for providing mail receptacles which are designed to protect mail from the weather and are neat in appearance, conveniently located, and safe to use. Neat, attractive mailboxes make a significant contribution to the appearance of the countryside and the streets in suburban areas," he said.

Overbeck said the placing of owner's names on the boxes is optional, "However," he added, "where box numbers are assigned, the box number must be shown on the side of the box visible to the carrier as he approaches, or on the door where boxes are grouped."

He said that in areas where snow removal is a problem, the use of a semicircular or extended arm type of support is suggested. "This allows snow plows to sweep near or under boxes by carriers and customers."

Overbeck reminded customers that when boxes are located on a street other than the one on which the customer resides, the street name and house number must be inscribed on the box.

He said the height of the box depends upon the type vehicle used by the carrier.

"The box should be adjusted so that as the lid opens, it falls even with the lowered window of the vehicle. This not only is for the convenience of the carrier, it increases efficiency by enabling the carrier to see clearly into the box when letters are to be picked up and helps him to expedite delivery by saving a few seconds at each box," Overbeck explained. Boxes and supports also should be kept painted and free from rust.

Pocket Calculators Are Handy for Many Tasks

By EDWARD NEILAN
Copley News Service

What can you use for flying a jet plane as well as for keeping track of telephone numbers?

The answer: an electronic pocket calculator.

You can also use it to keep your checkbook balanced, for figuring odds at the dog track, and to make foreign currency conversions.

These are just some of the answers that resulted from the industry's first survey of users of electronic pocket calculators. The tiny electronic whizzes have captured the imagination of thousands of Americans during the course of the last year. The survey was conducted by Bournier Instrument Corp., the nation's largest producer of electronic pocket calculators. It makes more than 2,000 machines each day and has sold over 500,000 machines since developing and introducing the first one in late 1971.

Names of people queried were selected at random from thousands of warranty cards which the company accumulated.

A jet pilot from Sebastian, Fla., reported that he used the calculator's constant key to calculate changing mileages while in flight.

A record producer from Nashville, Tenn., reported that when he is not using his calculator to figure out royalties, it sees active service in the telephone booth as a scratch pad for keeping track of telephone numbers given by information operators.

One imaginative customer used his calculator to figure out air fares while standing in lines at airport check-in counters.

Doctors reported that they figure out patients' bills to get their money before the patients leave the office.

Investment bankers and portfolio managers have listed dozens of ways to figure stock averages, yields and returns on investments.

The survey, which produced responses from housewives to college students, as well as insurance salesmen and carpeting merchandisers, revealed that most purchasers use them both for business and for personal computations.

Schoolteachers, who normally use the tiny calculators for grade averaging, also use them to balance their checkbooks—a chore made increasingly complex any other way by the more complicated types of checkbook registers.

Housewives who generally carry them during shopping sprees report they have found them handy at checking unit price, and keeping track of purchases while rolling a shopping cart down the aisle in the supermarket.

Several have even reported cash register tapes in which the items indicated don't add up to the total—discrepancies they never would have discovered without the calculator they carry in their handbags.

Calculator purchasers also seem to have a sense of humor as a common denominator.

One business executive indicated that, although his wife uses the calculator to keep household accounts, his young daughter likes to chew on it.
